

City Is Disappointed But Not Discouraged Over Bridge Decision

Don't Need Aid To Put Up Bridge

Mayor Urges Citizens To Get Together Behind Cherry-
st. Project

LAW-ST. BRIDGE IS URGED

Politics Is Scented in Commission's Delay and Final Decision

Disappointment was evident at the city hall Saturday over the decision of state highway commission refusing state and county aid for construction of a viaduct over the Fox river. But the disappointment was not keen enough as to make city officials discouraged.

"I am by no means discouraged," said Mayor Henry Reuter Saturday morning. "And the people of Appleton need not be. I still believe that the Cherry-st. viaduct can be built and financed without asking either the state or county for a cent of money. I am convinced that the highway commission's latest estimate of $366,500 for the Cherry-st. project is much too high. The commission's estimates usually are. I believe that the city of Appleton can build that bridge at saving of practically 50 per cent."

SHOULD GET TOGETHER

"We have $100,000 in the bridge fund ready for use. If the city is to raise a like amount by a bond issue, it would not be more than it could undertake. Let the people of Appleton get together and cooperate for the satisfaction of the most number of people concerned. Let us stop talking of this or that ward that either this or that bridge would benefit and let us talk in terms that will benefit the city as a whole. A bridge at Cherry-st. will benefit not only the entire city, but the intercity traffic as well. It will also give both the Fourth ward and the west end a chance to grow."

"The plan I would suggest is that the property owners of the Fourth ward get together and execute a deed for property on the river frontage for use of a right of way and a city park, the land to become the property of the city when the Cherry-st. bridge is built. The city needs a park in this ward and would also have to purchase a right of way for the bridge. The plan is of less value now than it would be in the future as the bridge is built. The city would help reduce the expenses for the city all the way around."

H. R. Eske, president of the common council, did not appear surprised at the decision of the highway commission.

BUILD LAWE-ST. BRIDGE

"I doubted from the start whether the commission would grant aid for either bridge," he said. "The only recourse for the city at present I believe is the immediate construction of the Lawe-st. bridge which would help to relieve the congestion on the Pearl-st. bridge. That bridge should be a high level, rather than a low level or medium bridge. If the city builds a low level bridge it might regret it at a later date. When the present Pearl-st. bridge gives out, we will then have a high level bridge at Lawe-st. to fall back upon."

Oscar F. Weissgerber, city engineer, was the most disgusted of all city officers. The decision came as a surprise to him inasmuch as he had reliable information that several commissioners had expressed themselves in favor of the Cherry-st. project.

"I call it a disgraceful way of sliding out," he said. "The commission knew that the city would never vote bonds for the construction of the Lake-st. viaduct at the tremendous cost of more than $700,000. Then they decided for the Lake-st. bridge and tell the people they will have to build it themselves, as the state has no money. Didn't they know this before?"

"What was the reason for withholding the decision for nearly two months after the second hearing? What was the necessity of having a second hearing at all? It appears to me the politics had much to do with the decision."

"Either one or the other bridge would have suited me. But from the financial standpoint, the west end project would have been the favorable one. I am convinced that the commission's estimate is too high on the Cherry-st. bridge. Estimates that I received from an eastern concern was $150,000, and when prices went up the figure was little more than $200,000."

"The people of Appleton I believe will not be discouraged by the decision. I think that if the city decides to build the west end bridge at its own expense the funds will be forthcoming."

FINANCIAL AID FOR GERMANY IS DISCUSSED

Allies Declare That Little Can Be Done Without Help
From United States

By Associated Press
London—American embassy officials said Saturday that the subject of German rehabilitation had been discussed for some time in diplomatic and other circles and the hope expressed that the United States might be induced to lend its support to the project.

It is generally pointed out in financial quarters here and elsewhere in Europe that little can be done by the allies to restore Germany's shattered economic structure without the assistance of the United States. Ambassador Harvey has discussed informally with Premier Lloyd George and other officials the financial plight of Germany and Austria and it is believed the ambassador has laid the British viewpoint before the state department.

The collapse of the German mark is accompanied by reports that Germany will be unable to meet her July reparations payment due a week from Saturday. The plight of the European exchanges in general calls for some gloomy comments.

RESTS WITH FRANCE

Washington—Solution of the German financial and industrial problem rests with France, in the opinion expressed Saturday by well informed economic experts of the United States government. American participation in any relief measures for Germany is regarded by some officials as an economic impossibility.

Viewed from the economic angle, the German situation was declared as solely a question of German credit which rested upon the reparations terms. Unless France is willing to make concessions in the matter of reparations Germany, it was asserted, cannot hope to borrow money to continue her rehabilitation and meet reparations payments.

MILWAUKEE MAN SHOOTING BURGLAR

Milwaukee—An unidentified burglar was shot and instantly killed by Valentine Gawronski, 1263 Lincoln Avenue early Saturday when the burglar attempted to force an entrance into Gawronski's home.

Gawronski used a double barreled shot gun, the charge entering the burglar's chest just under the chin and severing the head. He crumpled to the ground without a word and when Gawronski opened the door to investigate, the man was dead.

The coroner took the body to the morgue where it awaits identification. The man was about 35, about 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighed about 200 pounds. He had high cheek bones and very dark lips. Gawronski was not arrested but was asked to call at police headquarters to explain how the shooting occurred.

LANG IS GRANTED NEW TRIAL BY COURT

Madison—Frank Lang of Kenosha, serving a 20 year sentence after conviction on a charge of killing Charles Pacini, moving picture theatre owner of Kenosha, was convicted on insufficient evidence and did not have a fair trial, the Wisconsin supreme court held Saturday. Justice Jones in giving the opinion, referred the case back to the lower court for retrial.

He held that no evidence to connect Lang with the killing had been introduced at his trial other than confessions of the prisoner, which he said were claimed to have been obtained by the use of third degree methods.

Lake-St. Is Only Place For Bridge

Highway Commission Says
Cherry-st. Will Not Serve
Appleton's Purpose

PROJECT IS TOO LARGE

Commission's Decision Details
Reasons for Refusing to Give Aid

The official text of the state highway commission's decision declining state and county aid for a bridge across the Fox river in Appleton bears out in every respect the summary announced in the Post-Crescent Friday. The commission is almost emphatic in its statement that Appleton's needs will not be served by a bridge at Cherry-st., declaring that it is too far removed from the business section of the city and through traffic can be taken care of by rerouting Highway 15 over the road west of the Fox river between Appleton and Neenah, thus taking tourists out of the Twin Cities altogether. The Lake-st. route is proposed as the best solution of the problem but lack of funds makes it impossible for the commission to declare the bridge a necessity, thereby obligating the state to pay one-third of the cost. The decision further states that it was not the intention of the legislature to aid projects of the magnitude of the Lake-st. viaduct when the law granting state and county aid was enacted.

Following is the decision in full: "The City of Appleton, on August 13, 1921, filed a petition under the provisions of Section 1321a of the Statutes, praying for state aid in the construction of a bridge connecting the Fourth ward of the said City with the north bank of the Fox River. The hearing required by law was held in the City of Appleton on September 24, 1921, and a second hearing to gain additional information was held in the City of Appleton on Friday, May 19, 1922.

"There are at present two highway bridges across the Fox River in the City of Appleton. One of these, at John Street, connects with the so-called Darby-rd., which enters from the southeast. The other which carries state trunk highway No. 15, is located directly south from the main business center of Appleton and crosses the river on Lake-st. The present bridge on Lake Street is very narrow, and the approaches at both ends are very steep and crooked. There are numerous crossings at grade with the tracks of the C. & N. W. Ry. and the C. M. & St. P. Ry. The traffic during the busy season is as much as 3,000 vehicles per hour, and the resulting congestion grows. The city wishes relief from this condition and desires to construct a high level viaduct crossing from bank to bank. Two proposals have been seriously advocated.

"One of these is to begin at a point near the junction of Appleton street and Pearl Street at the point where Prospect street passes over Appleton street; thence to follow a route almost due south to the nearest point on the high bank on the south side of the river from which point a new road would have to be opened diagonally through the golf grounds of the country club, to a connection at Lake street near Orange street. A viaduct constructed at this route with a roadway of 30 feet and two six foot sidewalks has been estimated by the engineers of the Commission to cost not less than $750,000. It is designed to permit the operation of an interurban railway the width of the roadway should be increased ten feet, as a consequence of which the cost of the structure would be increased approximately one third, making the total cost in such case approximately $1,000,000.

"The other proposal is to construct a high level viaduct on Cherry street, which is located on the north side of one-half mile west of the present main business center of Appleton at College avenue and Oneida street. A viaduct at this point, constructed with the same capacity as at the more easterly side has been estimated to cost $366,500, if designed for vehicular traffic alone, or $480,000 if designed to carry an interurban railway.

"The hearing developed that there was strong local sentiment for both sites. It was urged for the most easterly site near Lake Street that the development of the Fourth ward of the city of Appleton had been retarded by the lack of proper connections with the main section of the city on the north side of the river, and by this alone, that the location of St. Elizabeth hospital on Lake street south of the river makes it imperative to provide adequate and direct facilities for reaching this hospital, and that the large summer traffic to Waverly

Dublin—Casualties suffered by the National army in the recent conflict in Dublin were 16 dead and 122 wounded, an official announcement says.

Architects estimate that it will require four years to rebuild the areas devastated during the recent fighting in the city, this not including replacement of the Four Courts building.

The Irish Independent suggests an Irish loan of 20,000,000 for reconstruction.

MEN RESPOND

There has been a remarkable response to the provisional government's call for volunteers to assist in putting down the Republican revolt. In this city alone nearly 2,000 men have been enrolled for military service. Substantial progress in the campaign being waged against the Republicans by the national force in the provinces is indicated in Saturday's official communique. More than 50 prisoners were taken at Arklow, Drogheda, Newton Cunningham and Ballymore Eustace.

The town of Ferns in county Wexford which has been strongly held by the irregulars, has been captured and the garrison taken prisoner. In this city alone the Emergency district parties of irregulars are reported to be roving about seizing food and clothing. Drogheda is completely controlled by the National forces, the communique says.

HARDING GREETED BY MINERS ON TRIP

President Will Stop Enroute to

Republican Rally

By Associated Press
Uniontown, Pa.—About a week's absence from the White House President Harding expected Saturday to be back in Washington by evening. A 225 mile automobile ride, most of it up and down mountains, faced him early Saturday, as he left the hotel near Uniontown where he spent Friday night after an all day drive from Columbus.

Part of Friday's ride from the Ohio capital to Uniontown was through coal mining sections affected by the strike. All along the route the president was cordially greeted, idle miners lined along the roadway joining in giving him an ovation as he passed. President Harding plans to stop Saturday at Hagerstown, Md., to be a guest of the Maryland State Republican committee at a rally which will be held at the Hagerstown Country club.

CONDITIONS OF BUSINESS IN WEST IMPROVE

Official Report Shows Working Conditions Are Above
90 Per Cent Normal

By Associated Press
Kansas City, Mo.—That employment conditions in the west, north and central district of the United States are above 90 per cent of normal, was shown in an official government report made public Thursday at district headquarters here for district number 4, United States Employment service of the department of labor. The report covers conditions in Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota and is for the month beginning May 15 and ending June 15.

According to the figures of the report, which are quoted as submitted by 1,378 industrial firms in 24 cities, 170,820 men at work. The total normal force of the reporting concerns is 188,299. The gain in numbers of employees in the month covered by the report was 7,692.

St. Paul, which employs the largest single group of workers of any city in the district with a normal roll of 28,294 employees had 27,711 men at work. In Minneapolis 19,849 were busy, 23,352 being the normal number.

INDUSTRIES REOPEN

Summarizing employment conditions in this district, the report finds more men being employed everywhere and industries which have been closed down for two years, re-opening. The packing industry at all points is busy, road building, paving and other construction together with private operations, is developing a pressing demand for all classes of labor. Farmers in several states are needing more labor than they can get while in other sections the rotation of the season has released farm labor for the time. It is especially noted the iron, steel and zinc industries are improving.

Blaine whom he is opposing for reelection, Mr. Morgan declared that as state printer, Atwood had complete control over the price that was paid for printing. He reiterated that he had saved $5,000 by refusing to print monthly pamphlets which the state printer had said would cost $390 a month if published.

SEEK MISSING CHILD ON LAKE; FIND HER SLEEPING IN HOUSE

Retiring unobserved to an upper room for a nap Friday afternoon Dorothy Koch, 3, caused her grandmother, Mrs. J. E. Voigt, needless alarm at her cottage at Lake Winnebago.

Mrs. Voigt did not miss her until she saw the Voigt rowboat which the child had often used, drifting half a mile out in the lake. After searching for the child everywhere she enlisted the help of neighbors and also notified her husband of her disappearance. Two boys rowed out to the boat which after much difficulty they finally got to shore. Several times they narrowly escaped being capsize by the high waves. Meanwhile the search continued and about the time Mrs. Voigt was convinced the child was drowned the youngster was found fast asleep.

Harding Wants Tariff Board Power Increased

Dawes Wants Mocha Served With His Meal

By Associated Press
Chicago — Brig-Gen. Charles G. Dawes, first director of the United States Budget, connoisseur of pipes, bank president and exponent of plain talk, heartily approves of President Harding's coffee policy.

"They serve coffee with meals at the white house," he said as he sat on the veranda of his Evanston home initiating a new pipe.

"You know so many places in Washington insist on serving coffee after the meal, but the president wants it with the meal, and that's the way I like it too."

General Dawes, who returned to private life as a banker Saturday, smokes with a relish and at Washington he was frequently seen to enter the presidential residence puffing his briar, to emerge still puffing.

"A great pipe," he said as he scrutinized his new possession "and it tastes good for a new one. A wonderful ingenious piece of work. I think I'm going to like that pipe the best of any pipe I ever had."

HOME RULE WILL NOT COME UP IN FALL ELECTIONS

State Supreme Court Holds
That Error By Enrolling
Clerk Nullifies Act

By Associated Press
Madison—The proposed home rule amendment to the Wisconsin constitution, which would extend authority to all cities and villages to determine local affairs without interference by the legislature, cannot be submitted to the people of the state for a vote in November, the supreme court held Saturday.

An error of the enrolling clerk in the 1915 session of the legislature in filing the wrong amendment with the secretary of state nullified the legislative act, the court held.

This action was brought before the supreme court by Arthur A. Bentley, president of the league of Wisconsin municipalities, to determine whether an error of the enrolling clerk during the 1915 session of the legislature prevented the proposed home rule amendment to the Wisconsin constitution from being submitted to the people at the general election in November of this year.

This proposed change in the basic state law would give all cities and villages the authority to decide their local affairs without interference by the legislature. Only acts of general statewide importance of reference to all cities and villages alike could be passed by the legislators.

Harding wants Tariff—8 Commission Would Handle All Necessary Alterations of Schedules

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1922, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington — President Harding wants the powers of the tariff commission enlarged and he will insist on a provision to that effect in the pending tariff bill.

Senator McCumber, chairman of the finance committee of the senate, has just announced on the floor of the senate that many of the charges in the bill since its introduction have been occasioned by changing conditions from day to day. Mr. Harding is among those who believes that if conditions change while the bill is under consideration they will change when it is a law and some permanent machinery for alteration must be provided because the senate finance committee cannot stay in continuous session to do the job when once the measure is law.

WILL MAKE APPEAL

The president is prepared to make an earnest appeal for the transfer of this problem to the hands of the tariff commission. This body at present has only powers of inquiry and study. For generations it has been argued that the tariff could be taken out of politics if the subject could be handled by a tariff commission. The president has the greatest opportunity an American president has ever had to overcome the traditional objections in congress to the giving up by congress of the task of making tariff bills. Heretofore, the power has been jealously guarded because of a fear that the protectionist or tariff for revenue principles would be abandoned according as the tariff commission was composed of those who leaned toward the Democratic or Republican view of tariff making. With the last few days the Republican national committee has taken a fling at the movement for a "non-partisan tariff commission" by insisting that there could be no such thing as one or the other of the two principles must prevail.

IS PROTECTIONIST

Mr. Harding is a protectionist. He quies the fears of those who would hesitate to give the full power to a tariff commission by urging that the commission should merely recommend and that the chief executive should have the power to proclaim the tariff duties as conditions change. This correspondent has been assured that Mr. Harding stands today on the recommendations he made in his December address to congress in which he said:

"I hope a way will be found to make flexibility and elasticity so that rates

JEWELL OFFERS TO CONFER

Board Rules Strikers Must Return to Work Before Settlement Can Be Made

By Associated Press
Chicago—Railway shopmen entered the second week of their strike Saturday with no apparent inclination to follow the only earnest to peace held open to them by the United States Railroad labor board.

The board stood by the position taken by its chairman, Ben W. Hooper, that the only way the striking shopmen could receive recognition in conciliatory conferences was to restore themselves to standing before the board by returning to work and then entering into negotiations for a settlement.

E. M. Jewell, head of the shop crafts who held himself open to approach by "any responsible person authorized to negotiate a settlement" declined to make the first move, preferring rather to place the blame for a continuance of the strike upon the labor board and the railroads.

REPORT OUTBREAKS
Mr. Jewell declared that the outbreak of peace should first be offered to the striking shopmen.

Conditions generally so far as transportation and shop operations were concerned, remained much the same as they had been for several days, but the beginning of the second week of the strike brought increasing restlessness among strikers and sporadic outbreaks in scattered rail centers.

New disorders broke out in Chicago where mobs of striking shopmen and sympathizers continued, terrorizing of workers and suspected strike breakers.

Several men, suspected of being strike breakers, were pulled from street cars and beaten, and the homes of workers were besieged and attacked with a hail of sticks and stones. A box car was fired and burned and several other cars were discovered soaked with oil.

The Chicago and Alton was one of the worst sufferers from the growing spirit among strikers to enforce abandonment of shop work. Suspension of shop work on the Alton was effected by strikers at Bloomington, Ill., and Slater, Mo.

TROOPS NOT NEEDED
None of the disturbances in Illinois were considered by state authorities as serious enough to warrant a calling for troops already mobilized until the situation changed and threats of further disorders disappeared.

Most railroads reported that the usual traffic was being handled as usual. The Santa Fe reported it heavier than usual and a few roads curtailed service.

COMPLAINTS SWORN
At Topeka, Kas., Ransdall Harvey, attorney for the Kansas Court of Industrial relations, swore out complaints against three striking Topeka shopmen and two in Ottawa, charging them with picketing in violation of the industrial court law.

Sixty-seven Negroes imported to Springfield, Mo., by the Frisco refused to go to work in the shops there and were given transportation back to their homes.

Disorders continued in the south where the first outbreaks of the strike occurred.

These books, with short reviews are printed herewith for the benefit of those who want "something different" to read:

Burroughs, John—"My Boyhood." Containing two sketches, "My Boyhood," written by John Burroughs in the last year of his life, and "My Father," written by his son, Julian Burroughs. The first is simply written and is full of the mellow philosophy of the nat- uralist's later years. Many letters written to his son are quoted in the second sketch.

TWO MOONSHINE DISTILLERS GET STIFF SENTENCES

Former Soldier is Sent to Hospital When Doctors Say He is Incompetent

William Basch of Ellington, former service man, who saw service on the Mexican border and in the World War, and left the service with a disability, then went to discharging his duties to the government, was arrested on charges of manufacture and sale of moonshine liquor. A complaint had been filed with the court about a month ago and turned over to state prohibition agents. But in view of their rush and search for bigger game the case was overlooked and finally left to the disposal of the county authorities. On Wednesday the chief of police of New London came to Appleton with the complaint that young men of that city were purchasing liquor regularly from Basch. A raid by the sheriff resulted in the discovery of two stills, a jug of moonshine and also disclosed that 75 gallons of mash had been dumped into the sandy soil and absorbed.

Basch was arraigned in court, found guilty and sentenced to 60 days of hard labor in the county workhouse. Some of his war comrades interceded for him and asked that the man be examined as to his mentality. Two former army physicians made the examination and declared him mentally incompetent.

An order was issued sending the prisoner to Northern Hospital for the insane with the recommendation that he also be sent to Mendota to be treated for an affliction contracted on the border.

Jacob Jacobs of Little Chute was the other man arraigned on charges of manufacture and sale of moonshine. Complaint was made by Fred Feldt, village constable. Armed with a search warrant, Underhill, Earl Schwartz, raided the Jacobs premises and found a filthy still and 10 gallons of moonshine and a large quantity of filthy mash. He was found guilty by Judge Spencer and sentenced to 60 days in the county workhouse.

John Jansen was arrested by Wilbur Bohan, county motorcycle officer for speeding in the town of Giant. Chute. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 and costs.

SPEED UP WORK ON LITTLE RAPIDS DAM

Reconstruction work on the canal bank at Little Rapids which was washed away by the recent floods is being rushed by the government which expects to resume navigation by the middle of August. Seven men are employed in making the repairs which the United States engineers estimate will cost $60,000. Stone blasted from the DePue lock last winter are being used in the new canal bank and is being transported in scows. Crabs for the foundation of the new earth works are built at Kaukauna and floated to the canal where they are sunk in place and filled with rock.

The tug Jane which tows coal barges between Green Bay and Appleton passed through the rapids at Little Rapids a few days ago on its way to Green Bay and narrowly escaped capsizing.

WANT WOODED TRACT AND LAKE FOR SPORTSMEN

Sportsmen belonging to a Chicago club are seeking to lease or purchase a wood section of land containing a lake, according to a letter addressed to secretary Hugh G. Corbett of the chamber of commerce by E. L. Braley, Chicago.

Mr. Braley asks assistance in locating such a place. A tract that has not been cleared and that can be bought cheaply is wanted, on which will be erected a hunting and fishing clubhouse. There must be a lake covering 200 to 500 acres and having a depth of more than 5 feet. A survey is being made of five states to find a tract of this kind.

Property that will answer this description is not available in Outagamie co.

Appleton's Greatest Need

Religion Day School

By E. L. MADISON
"Upbuilding of the religious day school in Appleton is one of the city's major needs," says Dr. H. E. Peabody, pastor of the First Congregational church. "We should extend this school to cover the high school grades, yet we should not enlarge it so rapidly that the present quality of the instruction will be diminished."

Two important phases of the school need to be kept intact in any future program. Dr. Peabody says. One is the religious value of the school and the other the scientific educational standards which are in use, making it as instructive as the average course in the public school.

"At the same time we must consider the needs and difficulties of the school principals and teachers," the pastor declares. "They have the job of high school problem, one of the most important to the city, to deal with and nothing should be done to overburden them during such a period. The religious school should be developed but not in such a manner as to overcrowd."

GREAT MOVEMENT

"This movement is perhaps one of the biggest before the churches of the United States today. The school was established here at an auspicious moment, and happily Appleton leads the state of Wisconsin in carrying out the idea. It is spreading to a number of cities now. Here as well as other places it is proving of interest to Catholics, Protestants and Jews alike. All welcome the opportunity to give their children the religious training of their choice. The day-school educational movement is spreading over the country just as religious revivals sometimes take hold."

Children of the fifth and sixth grades of the schools were in the classes conducted this season, Dr. Peabody explains, but next fall the fourth grade is to be added. It is the plan of those in charge to add one grade after another until all the years through high school have some period for religious training.

TWO NEW FACTORY BUILDINGS GOING UP AT JUNCTION

Wood Products Co. and Scolding Locks Hair Pin Co. Are Building

Appleton Wood Products Co. commenced work this week on the foundation of a new combination warehouse, shipping room and office building which is to be located immediately east of its present building. The structure is 40 by 70 feet in size and will provide additional room which has been very much needed for more than a year. The addition will be constructed of brick, steel and concrete and will correspond in style of architecture with the rest of the building.

The walls of the new 1-story brick factory building of the Scolding Locks Hair Pin Co. which is being erected south of the Junction are practically up and the iron trusses for the roof are now being placed in position. The building is 200 feet long and about 40 wide. Contractor William Lemke has the contract for both the factory building and the addition to the plant of Appleton Wood Products Co.

CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR FORMER APPLETON MAN

Karl Mathie of Wausau, who has accepted the Democratic nomination for governor as a representative of the dry element in that party, is re-membered in Appleton as a former assistant pastor of the Congregational church during the regime of Dr. John Faville. Mr. Mathie accepted the position shortly after graduating from Lawrence college and while engaged in church work married an Appleton girl, a daughter of the late Theodore Briggs.

QUESTION JURORS AS TO FITNESS

Questionnaires Mailed to Prospective Jurors for Fall Term in Circuit Court

Questionnaires are being sent by Harry A. Shannon, clerk of the circuit court, to prospective jurors of Outagamie co. who may be drawn at the opening of the next term of circuit court in September. The questionnaires are an inquiry into the qualifications of the addressees for jury service. Each juror must be of legal age, a citizen of the United States and a resident of Wisconsin and Outagamie co. for a stated time. The court also desires that the juror be able to read and write English understandingly and that he be in possession of his natural faculties.

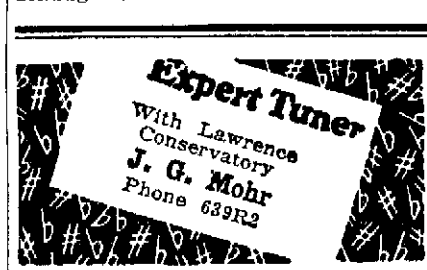

Questions are asked as to state of health, eyesight, hearing and exposure to contagious disease. A number of the questions deal with the occupation of the jurors. The fact that a juror is a physician, dentist, minister, druggist, or only embalmer in a locality may result in being excused from jury service.

In addition to the questions sent out to all prospective jurors, regardless of sex, another set of questions is given the women to answer on matters pertaining to health, household duties and number of children. The entire questionnaire is designed to save the court much time and labor when it goes in session.

PROVIDE ROOM FOR REVENUE EXPERT

Former Dental Clinic Room to be Fitted Up For Government Agent

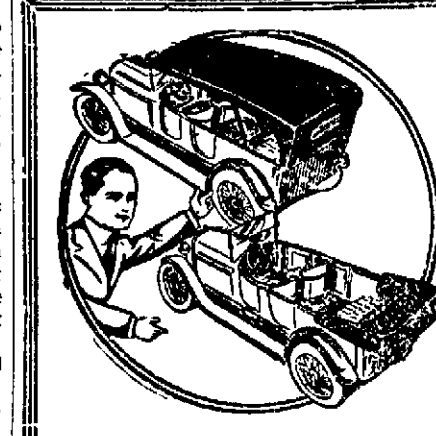

Office changes are being made in the city hall. The old city attorney's office—not the present one—is being prepared for the deputy revenue collector. It previously was used for the dental clinic but has been idle for some time. The city council at a recent meeting decided that inasmuch as the dental clinic has been abandoned the office should be used for other purposes. The dental chair cases and other equipment are to be stored and it is likely it will be sold. George P. Finch, United States deputy revenue collector, has hitherto had a desk in the council chambers. This was not considered private enough for his work which is more or less confidential. In order to receive this government service it was found necessary to provide a private office. The council chamber will be used as a waiting room for persons who have dealings with the revenue collector.

SPEED WAGON

Can Any Other Duplicate This Reo Motor?

One of the earlier Reo Speed Wagons, made in 1915, has an authenticated record of more than half a million miles! That means the wonderful Reo motor must have withstood the alternate stresses of more than 2,348,000 explosions and impulses; crank shaft must have revolved more than 1,174,000 times, while each cam must have withstood the wear of lifting its valve 587,000 times! There is a reason for that performance—it is just what the motor was developed to do. Intake valves located in cylinder-heads; exhaust valves, offset; spark plugs scientifically placed—this motor not only develops tremendous power for its size, but reciprocating parts are built to sustain those excessive strains.

COAL INDUSTRY NEEDS TO BE REORGANIZED

It appears to be exceedingly difficult for the mine operators and workers to agree upon a basis on which they may confer. Every time they attempt to come together they hold a brief session and take a recess, apparently in order to have time in which to change their points of view. They do not seem to be willing to get down to fundamentals and clear the way for a discussion of the real issues. Both parties to the controversy must bear in mind, however, that what President Harding said relative to the public's interest in fuel coincides with what the people think. If the operators and workers will not produce coal, the nation will have to get it out in some other way.

Now the truth is, that the coal industry is in a disorganized and unsatisfactory state. As President Harding has said, the underlying cause of the trouble is "the excessive development of a producing capacity in both tonnage available and miners to work it." And as he further pointed out in his address to the coal operators and miners in which he demanded a settlement, "no American activity can be held secure where employment is compensated on a base of half time or two-thirds of the normal, natural work period of an American wage earner."

Mr. Harding has placed his finger on the exact spot. The coal mining industry has been developed with a definite purpose in mind. In order to meet the fluctuations in demand for fuel, the operators have opened up an excessive number of mines and have located about them an excessive number of employees to work them. Instead of developing properties for the adequate meeting of demand on the basis of constant operation, they have chosen to undertake the mining of coal in the irregular and uneconomic manner the president has outlined. The result is that while the miners may appear to receive a large per diem for their service, the truth is that as a whole they are poorly paid. What they receive in compensation is not their per diem wage, but the total income over the period of a year. If they are forced into idleness for weeks or months at a time their income is heavily reduced. It is clear that the wage scale under such conditions must be exceedingly high, for it means the payment of men for idleness as well as for work.

Naturally the mines try to hold the scale down and the miners have to constantly fight to keep it up. It is especially true that in the bituminous field the miners are underpaid. Accordingly, they have a grievance against the operators which is genuine and which sooner or later must be dealt with fairly and scientifically. In the first place, they must be given regular and uninterrupted work. This can be done only by a complete reorganization of the coal industry to the end that surplus production will be eliminated and even, regular production based upon demand substituted. In the second place, liberal wages must be paid in order to bring contentment among employees and thereby insure dependable service.

The public will not go without fuel, that much is certain. It will see that the properties are mined somehow. But the public is fast coming to the conclusion that the operators are primarily to blame for the distressing fuel problem and that it is up to them to reorganize their business and put it on a basis that will admit of peaceful operation of the industry. In other words, it is the operators rather than the men who must lay the foundation for good understanding and right relations, and this can never be done so long as the industry is handled in the unscientific and uneconomic manner it is now conducted.

THE FREE STATE ON TRIAL

The provisional government of Ireland will either promptly put down the civil war and make short work of the resistance of De Valera, or it will face a long drawn out guerilla campaign. Both Great Britain and the outside world expects it to do the former. The provisional government is on trial before the world. Its capacity for the administration of Ireland's affairs will be determined in a large measure by the dispatch with which it puts down the present rebellion. This rebellion is the work of a few hotheads and irreconcilables, with only a small minority of the people back of them. The Free State has the support of the overwhelming majority of Irishmen, in fact it may be said that the approval of the constituted government is practically unanimous.

For these reasons, it is up to the provisional government to summon all the power at its command and put down the De Valera revolt. It is to be assumed that the government has ample power, and that it is solely a question of judgment and efficacy in its use. "The danger to Ireland which I feared most and warned our people of—civil war—has come upon us," says De Valera. The "civil war" he feared is his own production, and although it has not yet been raised to the dignity of that plane he is solely responsible for the fighting at Dublin and the loss of life and property which his foolish resistance has caused. Had it not been for De Valera Ireland would have had peace long ago and by this time would have been well along in the setting up of the machinery of self-government and in the perfection of the Free State. Furthermore, his countrymen would have been enjoying prosperity and contentment and its political grievances would have been at an end.

The provisional government has been exceedingly lenient with those who have resisted it, in fact, it would seem from a distance that it has been too lenient. Having been chartered by the Irish people to set up the Free State it is its duty to do so, and to tolerate no interference. British statesmen have grown impatient with the manner in which the situation has been handled, while public opinion in the United States has been somewhat impatient with the authorities for not dealing more energetically with those in revolt. It is to be hoped the provisional government will act with a firm hand and promptly put an end to civil strife. If it does not it will lay itself open to the question of its competency.

APPLETON AND ITS PARKS

The common council won the approval of a big majority of Appleton's citizens when it voted to purchase the 28-acre tract in the northern part of the Sixth ward for park purposes. Appleton, since the purchase of Pierce park, has come to a realization of the value of parks not only as a place for recreation but as a financial asset. It is difficult for a city to own too many parks.

The newly acquired park property is advantageously located. No doubt it will mean a rapid growth of that part of the city and it would not be surprising if property values increase rapidly. Homes in the vicinity of Pierce park have increased in value several fold since the city purchased the property.

There is quite a general impression in the city that the council now should take steps to acquire park property in the Fourth and Fifth wards. Two desirable tracts are available in the Fourth ward but the Fifth ward is not quite so fortunate. It has been suggested, however, the property near the intersection of State road and Second avenue be purchased and trees planted. It is feared that unless action is taken at once to provide the Fifth ward with a park the cost in the future will be almost prohibitive.

The common council deserves commendation for its forward looking attitude with reference to recreation spots. Parks and playgrounds make for a happier citizenry and a happy citizenry means a contented city.

Eruptions Due to Poisonous Plants
Skin inflammation, or dermatitis, as doctors call it, may be produced by contact with various substances of animal, vegetable or chemical nature. It is characterized by redness, swelling, little vesicles or water, blisters, and sensations of itching, burning or pain.

The dermatitis caused by contact with poison ivy (Rhus toxicodendron) is well known, but the ivy itself is not so well known. The ivy leaf is trifoliate—that is, it consists of three separate leaves on the stem, not a single leaf in three parts.

Other plants which may cause dermatitis are the poison sumach, the nettle, the smartweed, cowhage, and several members of the primrose family.

Primrose eruption is not rarely seen on the hands of women who grow a primrose in a jar in the house, and is usually mistaken for "eczema." It is far less severe than poison ivy eruption, consisting of a more or less persistent fine vesicular rash with itching, chiefly between the fingers, sometimes about the cheeks and neck. The eruption will almost or quite clear away, only to recur shortly without apparent cause, as long as the primrose is kept in the house.

As for poison ivy, a susceptible person should smear the exposed parts of skin with vaseline before approaching a known growth of ivy. He should immediately bathe the exposed skin with soap and water following any possible exposure, then mop it with pledgets of cotton wet with alcohol, in order to dissolve off any of the volatile essence of the ivy which may be on the skin. More as a preventive than a cure for the skin eruption, alkalies are advisable, to neutralize the poisonous substance, which is an acid. For this purpose cloths kept wet with a solution of saleratus (two tablespoonfuls in a pint of water) will suffice. If itching is intense, the well known calamine lotion, with or without a small proportion of carbolic acid, is grateful.

Glycerine ¼ ounce
Powdered calamine ¼ ounce
Powdered zinc oxide ¼ ounce
Borax ¼ ounce
Lime water, enough to make eight ounces.

When itching is intense, pure carbolic acid may be added to the lotion in any quantity up to ¼ per cent—about 20 grains or drops in the eight ounce mixture. The lotion should be well shaken before applying, and simply patted over the affected areas with the fingers.

After a dermatitis has developed, if any blisters rise they should be opened with a boiled or flamed needle, the fluid contents gently pressed out and absorbed with cotton or clean towel and carefully kept from further contact with unaffected parts of the skin. The surface may then be dressed with the calamine lotion, or with compresses kept wet with saturated solution of boric acid.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Itching in the Ear

Kindly tell me the cause of an annoying itching in the outer tube of the ear.—Mrs. L. C. F.
Answer—A habit of inserting things in the ear in a mistaken effort to clean it often causes such irritation. Accumulation of cerumen (ear wax) is another cause. Irrigate ear canal once a day with some lukewarm water (a pint) containing a tablespoonful of soda.

I wish to express my appreciation for your goodness in suggesting the 5 per cent sulphur ointment to be massaged into scalp every day for dandruff. I used it two weeks and my dandruff was completely cured. Is it proper to take another course of such treatment in case dandruff returns?

Answer—Yes. It is pretty sure to return sometime, since most men visit barber shops and most women visit hair dressers, where reinfestation with the Sabouraud bacillus is scarcely to be avoided.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Saturday, July 10, 1897

Seven carloads of livestock were shipped to Chicago the previous week.

Archy D. Ball was to preach at the Presbyterian church the Sunday following.

Mrs. Nic Heintz and child of Rice Lake were guests in the family of L. F. Kutler.

Contracts for the new residence to be erected by M. F. Barreau and W. L. Rhodes were to be awarded the following Thursday evening at the office of Architect W. W. DeLong.

Merchants and manufacturers claimed the mid-summer dullness had settled down and very little was doing on the street or on the river.

Major Lahee was to attend the dedication of the Logan statue at Lake Front park, Chicago, July 22, at which time the Wisconsin commandery of the Loyal Legion was to be the guest of honor of the Illinois commandery.

The condition of Mrs. S. A. Russell, who was injured in the railroad wreck in Chicago two weeks previous, was reported to be favorable.

The families of Dr. E. Stansbury, T. W. Orison, P. W. Harrison and F. J. Harwood were occupying their cottages at Lochry.

The rebuilding of the main line of the Northwestern Railway Co. through Appleton was going forward rapidly, gravel trains being constantly employed. The work was being done from the direction of Kaukauna and had progressed as far as Appleton.

Two cows belonging to Fred Miller of Grand Chute were poisoned by drinking from pails containing a mixture of paris green and water.

T. J. Long of the firm of O'Keefe & Long had one of the bones of his right wrist broken by a scantling falling upon it.

Hail to Hot Biscuits

Another tradition is shattered. Hot bread, the hane but delight of many stomachs, has been declared by the Department of Agriculture not guilty of the charge of causing indigestion.

Rolls or biscuits may be served piping hot from the oven without fear of bad effects, provided they are well cooked. Be they made with yeast or baking powder, or the now almost unknown sour dough, they will do no harm if the oven is sufficiently hot.

The quality that causes indigestion is not the heat but the soginess. In this respect, therefore, the department justifies the normal fear of "sinks." The principal characteristic of that variety of biscuit is its well known heaviness—a heaviness which has sunk it to the level of the stereotyped joke. Who does not know the palled biscuit with a thin crust, with the inside of an éclair? This is the type that has brought hot biscuits in disrepute.

But the light, well made, thoroughly baked hot breads are now freed from the curse of their soggy brethren, and, if the department is to be taken as mentor, may be eaten without fear.—NEW YORK TRIBUNE.

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

REFLECTION OF THE NATION'S VIEWS PROVE HELPFUL

That the members of the House are fortunate in being able to get opinions of the people "back home" before being compelled to act upon the pending ship subsidy measure is the view of many of the editorial writers who are discussing the subject. The line of condemnation or of favor still is very sharply drawn but at present the question of sectionalism seems to have disappeared. Most of the debate on the usefulness of the subsidy hinges on whether it really is the only way that the merchant marine can be saved for the nation. Editors generally seem agreed that the ships must be held available in case of future war, the only difference of opinion being whether the subsidy method really is the better one.

In the view of the Asbury Park PRESS the fact that the House is in recess will afford a splendid opportunity for the members to get the actual sentiment of the nation toward the subsidy. They will be able, it says, "to set before the public the favorable view of the pending subsidy measure that is held by the administration. It may be that the public will be persuaded. It may be, on the other hand, that the congressman will find themselves up against the usual stone wall of opposition or apathy and return to Washington determined to let the measure die, for the present season at least." Still, the Baltimore NEWS cannot endorse that method of reasoning because "anyone who takes the trouble to stop the next half a dozen people whom he meets on the street and ask them their opinion of the merchant marine will probably secure results that are interesting, but he will certainly not secure results that are particularly relevant to the very technical question of how we may best handle the problem. The chances for an intelligent solution will gain nothing from popular referendum per congressmen, unless the people can be made to see how they must place their reliance in expert opinion." Guiding, however, all this is so, the Philadelphia BULLETIN argues that "no congressman should be permitted to come to a vote on the bill with any misapprehension of his constituent's desire in the matter."

The early belief that the middle west opposed the subsidy is held erroneous by the Lexington LEADER in view of the assurances by Malcolm Stewart, "who is more intimately familiar with sentiment on that question than any other man," and it declares, after reviewing the necessity for getting vessels moved up at the docks back into the service of the nation, that "the policy that the President, some Democratic statesmen should rise and give us the information." This opinion also is held by the St. Louis GLOBE DEMOCRAT which points out that "we have on our hands a voracious founding whose keep is most expensive. If, in leaving it on another's doorstep, we can put in the basket money enough to ensure that it will be kept and raised to usefulness, why should we not do so, particularly when it will be raised better than we could raise it and we can save something by doing it." However, the Columbus STATE JOURNAL considers the remedy worse than the disease because "it almost certainly would cost the taxpayers billions before they got rid of it, if they ever did. And all the time it would be encouraging and fostering the bad principle of government interference in private business. It is generally the best policy when one has a bad investment on one's hands to sell it for what it will bring, take the loss at once and forget about it. Sending good money after bad is always foolish."

So far as the Denver ROCKY MOUNTAIN NEWS is concerned it is convinced that the "west is skeptical. The west went boldly to the aid of the United States in the Panama canal construction project. Since then the western states have had their eyes opened, being compelled, through high freight rates, to pay excessive premiums on canal construction. A good many people are fearful that the ship subsidy measure may have a like effect. If they are to be called on to pay additional freight rates to railroads to permit the latter to compete with subsidized vessels, they are not to be blamed for their antagonism to the subsidy. The west is in need of light. Perhaps the congressional delegation will furnish it." The Chicago JOURNAL feels certain that if the subsidy is passed the soldiers' compensation must be sidetracked and it asserts that it "is time for the veterans of the American Legion to realize that there is not enough money in the treasury to pay both shipping and soldiers. If the subsidy is allowed to slip through the bonus must wait outside." However the Cincinnati ENQUIRER points out that the shipping matter is not to be considered separately from the question of national defense. It was the merchant marine during the recent war which saved the day. Shall we now cast aside this agency vital to the national defense only to create another at staggering cost to meet the exigencies of the next war? Endorsing this argument the Oakland TRIBUNE also insists that "the shipping of the world will be done in the merchant ships of other countries unless the legislation is successful. American vessels must be able to operate on equal terms with their rivals."

The belief is expressed by the Nashville TENNESSEAN that the real remedy is a better management of the shipping arguing that if "Mr. Harding honestly desires to help America regain her position on the seas the way for him to do it is open. Let him fire Lasker and his crew and put the men in charge who have operated the government line to the Panama canal zone." The Tulsa TRIBUNE also opposes the bill because in its opinion "it would open immense opportunities for private gain at the taxpayer's expense to the shipping interest which have urged the passage."

But granting the cost to the taxpayer, the Boise STATESMAN argues that "if we fail to sustain and develop the fleet which we now possess that failure may some day be paid for in blood and treasure if war clouds again darken the nation's skies," while the Fremont TRIBUNE is convinced "the blunt fact is that we are now throwing a dead subsidy of fifty million dollars into the air while the American fleets are rotting at their moorings, at the same time refusing to substitute therefore a cash subsidy that will actually save us from twenty to forty millions a year and send the American merchant flag to every corner of the earth."

In voicing its complete opposition to the subsidy the Fort Wayne JOURNAL insists that "the fatal defect in it, however, is that there are millions who favor the maintenance of the merchant marine who are unalterably opposed to the President's plan of subsidy. The majority of the people are not willing to submit to taxation for the subsidization of private interests like the shipping trust. Also in opposition, the Jackson TIMES UNION thinks that "the trouble with our merchant marine is the effort to monopolize it. If American vessels were permitted to compete in their expenses with foreigners as they are compelled to compete with them for business, they will do their share of the carrying business and even if they do not it will be done as efficiently by others without taxing the American people to create an artificial level of wages or of profits."

UNION OF INTELLECTUALS

LONDON—The Post's Paris correspondent says an interesting movement has just been founded by Prince Charles Antoine de Rohan with a view to render more effective in European countries the influence of the intellectual classes on national life. The Prince, who belongs to the Austrian branch of the Rohan family, has come to Paris from Vienna, where he has already launched his ideas in practical form. He hopes to have equal success here.

"One of the great causes of the crisis we are all now undergoing," he stated in the course of an interview, "is that the elite of every country are dispersed, and have no occasion to meet and consider the existing situation with knowledge of the facts. What is wanted by one is unknown to others. They are aware only of extremist tendencies and opinions which they gather from newspapers. My suggestion is that they should form centres of intellectual relationship. We must all learn to be Europeans. In order that the effort may succeed we must create an intellectual class with broad minds obedient to a European ideal. Such a class has hitherto been lacking. It is practically impossible for a man of the left to hear a Churchman explain his philosophy, or a man of the right to hear an objective exposé of Bolshevism. In due course we hope to organize international exchanges, and I look forward to the time when there will be an intellectual, scientific, and moral Grande Semaine which will be attended by people from all countries, and will be for intellectual subjects in general. Such gatherings will be a sort of congress of the European mind."

RUSSIA'S GOLD SUPPLY DIMINISHING

LONDON—"Although conditions generally in South Russia are shockingly bad, and local industry and agriculture are almost entirely stagnant, the outlook is brighter than it was six months ago."

This is the view of the Novorossisk correspondent of the Federation of British Industries, who states that since January last quite a fleet of steamships have discharged cargoes at that port the Daily News says.

"All foreign trade is still in the hands of the Soviet Government," the correspondent states, "and is controlled by a special Government department called the Vneshtorg, which maintains a close liaison with the All-Russian Co-operative Society."

"The grain cargoes and most of the flour landed at Novorossisk in recent months have been bought abroad for gold, which in some cases has been paid over by a representative of the Vneshtorg on board the ship before her cargo was discharged."

The supply of gold, however, in Government hands is steadily diminishing, as is the supply of goods capable of being used for barter."

The attitude to foreigners has considerably improved, and if free trade is again allowed things should, in the opinion of the correspondent, rapidly pick up, especially "as there is little doubt that comparatively large quantities of gold and silver are being hoarded and will be released only when the embargo on private trading is raised."

EUROPE TO LEARN LONDON DANCES

LONDON—The Paris correspondent of the Daily Express says that London is teaching the Continent how to dance.

Among the novelties accepted by the annual congress of dancing teachers held in Paris were two of English origin. Two hundred experts from France, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland, Italy, Greece, and Turkey will teach La Gyda and the Tangana, invented by the Hurdalls of London during the next dancing season.

La Gyda is in waltz time with cross over to "celator" steps, a reminiscence of the polka, and a figure in which the couples hold hands.

Tangana is simpler and not difficult to learn, as it is merely a languorous footstep with a glide in it.

Teeth Require Time

By Dr. R. H. Bishop

You can brush your teeth diligently and well after every meal and you can use the best of tooth powders or dental creams but if you don't eat enough lime your teeth will decay. For science has come to the conclusion that decay is brought about by systemic changes in the blood.

The blood of a person who lives according to health common sense will contain certain special substances called "sozins." Sozins contain lime for the make-up of bones and teeth.

Thus it is a deficiency of lime in the diet of the average American that is a widespread factor in the universal decay of teeth. The average bill of fare consisting of fine flour, bread, potatoes, meat, coffee, butter, sugar, breakfast foods, fruits, etc., contains less than one-quarter of the amount of lime necessary to maintain calcium balance.

Dentists long ago relinquished the idea that the toothbrush can stay decay. The toothbrush is important and does a great deal toward checking in decay, but still more important is a recognition of the causes of dental decay. To eliminate these causes requires, first, an improvement in resistance to disease by improving the general health. Second, a dietary rich in calcium so as to make sure of a high calcium content of the saliva. Such a diet includes an abundance of greens and fresh vegetables. Whole wheat cereals should be substituted for such foodstuffs as fine flour, hominy, cornmeal, products, rice, and various bakery products. Milk should be freely used, especially by growing children. Third, the teeth should be brushed on arising in the morning before retiring at night and after each meal. Fourth, laxative food-stuff should be included in the dietary in order to keep free of constipation. If necessary agar-agar and paraffin oil may be used in some form.

Q. What companies spend the most money for advertising? F. R. C.

A. The Blackman Advertising Company says that the American Tobacco Company leads in newspaper advertising, spending $2,500,000 annually. The U. S. Tire Company, Pinkham, American Sugar and Liggett and Meyers appropriate $1,000,000 for this purpose. For magazine advertising, the Joseph Campbell Company spends $1,200,000; Victor Talking Machine, $1,200,000; Proctor & Gamble, $1,200,000; Congleum Company, $800,000; Swift & Company, $700,000.

Q. Are surnames used in Sweden? C. F. W.

A. They are not universally used in Sweden. Comparatively few peasants have surnames. The children take the father's Christian name in addition to their own.

Q. How did the Island of Navassa become a possession of the United States? E. A. C.

A. In 1857 Peter Duncan, an American discovered on the Island of Navassa a deposit of guano. According to an Act of Congress passed August 18, 1856, relative to the discovery of guano deposits on unclaimed islands, it was decided that the Island of Navassa should be considered "as appertaining to the United States."

Q. Has hookworm been eradicated? F. H.

A. In 1910 a survey in a Virginia county showed that 82.6 per cent of the school children were afflicted with the disease. A survey taken in 1921 showed that the infection had been reduced to 2.2 per cent. Other surveys also show gratifying results. While not eradicated, the disease is being brought under control.

Q. How long have women been permitted to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States? C. F.

A. The bill permitting women to practice law before the Supreme Court of the United States was passed by Congress in 1879, largely due to the efforts of Belva A. Lockwood.

Q. Please give a recipe for shrub? M. E. T.

A. Berry shrub: Pick over and wash 4 quarts of berries. Put in stone jar and add one pint vinegar. Cover with cheese cloth, stir each day for five days. Strain into a kettle. Add one pound of sugar to each pint of liquid. Boil slowly for five minutes. Bottle cork and seal. To serve, pour over glasses full of cracked ice.

Q. Please describe a spiral? B. K. E.

A. A spiral is a curve which during the gradual regression from a point winds repeatedly around it.

Q. It is true that only half the moon is seen from the earth? M. F. G.

A. Strictly speaking, it is not true that only one side of the moon is visible from the earth's surface. The moon's rotation in her orbit is not uniform, therefore, two small strips of surface in addition to the regular portions of the surface run from pole to pole on the east and west sides, and become alternately visible. Because the moon's axis is not perpendicular to the orbit, a portion around the North Pole is visible during one half and the corresponding portion around the South Pole during the other half of her revolution in her orbit. The combined effect of these variations is that we can see altogether about 59 per cent of the moon's surface. Only 41 per cent is at all times visible from the earth.

Q. Who first recited "In Flanders Field in this country? L. M.

A. During the war, E. H. Southern read this poem to a Brooklyn audience and announced that it was the first rendition in America.

Q. Is the Hudson River ever called the East River? L.

A. The Hudson River and the East River are two distinct streams, separated by a portion of Manhattan Island. The Hudson River was originally named the North River in order to distinguish it from the Delaware or South River.

Q. How did Bud Fisher happen to invent Mutt and Jeff? J. E.

A. On November 15, 1907, a cartoon comic-strip appeared in a San Francisco newspaper portraying the race-track adventure of A. Mutt. Bud Fisher had been attending the races. He watched men tearing around to lay down bets, and decided to draw a composite type of man and make a series of cartoons showing his experiences at the races. This produced A. Mutt. Soon afterward he added Jeff as a companion to Mutt.

Q. What is spun butter? E. C.

A. Butter drawn out or worked into thread-like form, usually for ornamental purposes, is called spun butter.

Q. What are the symptoms of mountain sickness? N. O. R.

A. At first effects of anoxemia, or mountain sickness, the skin becomes rather dry and the digestive processes are deranged; then follow laminitis, loss of appetite, aversion to all forms of physical effort and drowsiness.

A. A spiral is a curve which during the gradual regression from a point winds repeatedly around it.

Girl Scouts Qualify As Fire Fighters

"What's the matter with the Girl Scouts?"

"They're alright."

"Who says so?"

On the afternoon of July 4, the cottagers on Lake Winnebago were saying so after part of Pine Tree Troop discovered and put out a fire.

The girls were at one of the booths along the shore of the lake when they saw a fire under the porch of a nearby cottage which had been started by a firecracker. With all their scout training immediately in mind, the girls made their way to the fire and quietly extinguished it. The Pine Tree Scouts now have another laurel to add to their splendid record.

How About It? Can You Live Comfortably On A Annual Salary Of $2,600

Lots of Hot Arguments Have Been Started by Effort to Ascertain What is Necessary for "Comfortable Living."

"Did you write that story about the women who can't get along on $2600 a year? And do you mean to tell me that it has come to such a pass that women say that if their husbands are not earning more than $200 a month they cannot get along comfortably? Do you know that more than half the men in Appleton are not getting that much money? Do you honestly believe that the women are right? What is the world coming to?"

Such was the volley of questions which were thrust at the Contest Editor as he joined a group of friends on a comfortable porch Friday after the story on whether a family can live comfortably on $2600 appeared in the Post-Crescent. The conversation waxed pretty hot especially among some of the older men whose wives had been able to manage their homes on a small income. Some of the younger unmarried men agreed that it took an awful lot of money to run a house and for that reason they had never attempted it.

LETTERS ARE WANTED

The men pressed the point, what was the Contest Editor's belief in the matter? The editor explained that his belief in the matter did not count because it was their opinions on the subject, written in letters to the contest Editor, which made the contest a success. All the sitting on the front porch and discussing the problem privately will not get the contest anywhere. Letters which put forth sound arguments for or against the fact that an ordinary family can or cannot live on $2600 a year, he wanted. The immediate response to the contest in conversation shows that many people have been trying to formulate in their own minds, what is a livable sum? Not so long ago, most families of the average type were waiting until Tom, Dick or Harry earned $100 a month before they married. That was considered a splendid salary for the young man at that time but what is it now?

And granting that a man earns the arbitrary $2,600 a year, how does the family get on? What do they do? What proportion are they able to save? Do they save what is left over or do they put the savings in the bank first and then get along on what is left? Do they save just a little bit more than they can get along without?

What about the sum spent for running the house? Do they just charge things at the grocery store and hope that both ends will meet at the end of the month or do they say "$50 is all that we may spend for food during the month?" And when that $50 is gone, what do they do? What percentage of the monthly salary is necessary for clothing? What for running the car? Is there a place in a comfortable living for a certain amount of recreation? Does the wife have a personal allowance and does the husband have a certain amount of spending money? Do you believe in making your saving plans or do you prefer going along just meeting expenses as they come? Write it to the Contest Editor at once and sign your name as evidence of good faith. Your identity will not be disclosed in any way.

PETTY SQUABBLES ARE BLAMED FOR LOSING BRIDGE

John Conway Says Harmony Here Might Have Resulted in State Aid

"Petty squabbles among our people are responsible for the decision which deprives Appleton of state aid with which to build a bridge," said John Conway, in commenting on the announcement made Friday by the state highway commission.

"What we lacked in our deliberations here was unity. If we had dropped our personal preferences and prejudices and worked for the good of the whole city, the matter might have turned out differently. Eau Claire got busy while we were quarreling over locations and grasped the opportunity. The people there were almost of one accord, and I am sure there was hardly a score of dissenting votes on the bond issue."

"There still is a chance for Appleton to get a bridge at Lake-st. I believe Appleton will be next in line for the state aid provided under the law. I feel certain that the legislature will not repeat this law and that the appropriation will be increased at the next legislative session to take care of the projects that are proposed. So many cities are asking aid, now that the provisions of the law have become known, and there is such a popular demand for state aid bridges that I believe this law will have to continue in force."

Mr. Conway says the law has not yet functioned as intended, because it was passed to build a bridge across Sturgeon Bay. Such a structure would cost a million dollars or more, and the annual appropriation of $100,000 now available would not pay the state's share for years. It is either lack of highway funds or a desire to test out the law that has kept it from functioning as intended, Mr. Conway believes, and the next legislature will change this.

"The bridge will come in due time," Mr. Conway declared. "You can see from the commission's decision that the people who are advocating a bridge at the west end are in error and that the logical place is Lake-st. When an impartial body takes hold of this question the results are different from those advocated by local factions. The commission has selected a location for the bridge where it will do the most good for the largest

MAINTENANCE MEN HERE QUIT JOBS WHEN PAY IS CUT

McFarland's Section Men Say They Cannot Support Families on Present Wage

The first section men in Appleton to lay down their tools in connection with the railroad strike are those employed by William McFarland, foreman, who quit their jobs Friday night. CADILLAC

The owner of a Cadillac knows that every one of its superiorities of performance can be traced back to a fundamental mechanical feature, which is frequently Cadillac's exclusive property.

The car's even and almost instant acceleration, blending into a steady surge of supple power, for instance, is regularly a cause of Cadillac owners enthusiasm.

In part, of course, this remarkable acceleration and flexibility of the Cadillac is due to the continuous torque made possible by its eight-cylinder design.

But they are also influenced by the swift responsiveness of the new Type 61 thermostatically controlled carburetor in supplying the correct fuel mixture for varying loads, speeds and temperatures. Automotive engineers and Cadillac owners with mechanical gifts have termed this thermostatically controlled carburetor the most effective device for the purpose yet developed.

There are many Cadillac owners who are intimately informed on the Type 61 carburetor and other exclusive Cadillac features, and who take no little pride in their presence.

There is another equally large group of Cadillac owners who are content simply to revel in the car's performance, and who rejoice that they need never give a thought to its mechanical sources.

But on one point both groups cordially agree, and that is that these engineering features must be fine, and many of them must be exclusive, else how explain the peculiar joy of the Cadillac!

Both questions have a personal interest to every man and woman, and child in the United States, and will be controlling factors in the coming Congressional elections in many States. This Nation-wide Poll, now being taken by THE LITERARY DIGEST, will reveal, in advance of the election, how the majority of the citizens stand on these questions. The result is everywhere eagerly awaited.

EVERY WEEK FROM EVERY STATE IN THE UNION

The results will appear in THE LITERARY DIGEST. All the figures will be given in detail and will be analyzed and explained, State by State, until the poll is completed. The first announcement will be in the July 8th issue. These reports will have unique and decisive interest for political leaders, the press, and citizens of the whole country. DIGEST readers, of course, will get them first and in the most complete detail. At the same time, and all through the year, THE LITERARY DIGEST will be gathering carefully and reporting all the facts and opinions on all sides bearing upon all the great problems and issues which are being discussed and which must be settled by the American people. THE LITERARY DIGEST is wonderfully equipped for this service by a system built up at great expense through many years of careful work, and reaching into thousands of newspapers and periodical offices in all parts of the world. The reader can depend upon THE LITERARY DIGEST with absolute certainty as it reveals, from week to week, free from all prejudice and partizanship, the real state of the Nation's mind, the real facts affecting all issues, and the progress of all the great problems toward settlement.

Here is a home plan to meet requirements of home builders who desire distinction and style at moderate cost, along with standard equipment and all home conveniences. This plan is interchangeable, that is to say, the home can be built of frame with siding exterior, stucco on metal lath, cement block with stucco finish, brick or hollow tile and stucco if desired.

From all points of view this home is practical and economical and yet there's no niggardly scrimping of essential comforts or beauty of appearance for the sake of cutting down on building costs. You will find numerous conveniences and comforts such as are generally found in larger, more expensive dwellings.

Observe the handsome built-in sideboard in the dining room, the delightful windows in the living room, the unusual amount of closet space, the many windows in the sunporch. While this home is square in plan, nothing could differ more from the hackneyed appearance of the average square home.

Notice the charming front doorway, the quaint hood which offers protection against the weather, the coat closet in the vestibule and the way the vestibule opens close to the stairs so that if you want to go directly upstairs you don't have to walk across the living room to reach the stairway.

Each room in the house has cross ventilation and is an outside room. The kitchen has been planned to route steps and save labor. The refrigerator is placed in the rear vestibule opening directly from the kitchen. A door on the vestibule prevents drafts from reaching the kitchen.

It would be difficult to find a more compact plan, and, on observation, you find not an inch of waste space. The home was planned for a 42 foot lot. By decreasing the width of the sun porch the house can be placed on a 40 foot lot.

BEGIN REDUCING DETOUR LENGTHS ON BADGER ROADS

The detour peak on Wisconsin highways is said to have been reached and from now on there will be a gradual cutting down of this enormous detourage estimated at 325 miles. The detours on highway 15 are the longest. One mile was cut off these detours last week and another will be cut off this week. The date of the opening of 15 clear through to Milwaukee is set for Aug. 15.

Highway 55 will soon be completed. It is said the stretch between Barton and West Bend will be open in two weeks. Highway 52 will see its detour shortened before the end of the month.

Highway 19 will be completed by Aug. 15, and the four miles of concrete on 61 between Elkhorn and Delavan will be finished by the middle of July. The nine miles of concrete on the same route between Prospect and Mukwonago will be open Sept. 1.

Highway 59 between Geneseo and North Prairie will be ready for use Aug. 1. The detour on 89 south of Whitewater will be shortened three miles by July 20.

MORGAN SPEAKS ON TAX QUESTION

By Associated Press
Alma, Wis.—Attorney General William J. Morgan speaking here Friday in his campaign for nomination as the Republican candidate for governor of Wisconsin went at length into the tax question confronting the state. He declared that by constructive legislation large sums of money could be saved.

"Governor Blaine talks of tax reductions," the attorney general said, "but you will notice that he does nothing but talk. He has been in office," he added, "two years and this year there was more land listed on delinquent tax rolls than ever before during the past 20 years. He has had two years in which to do something, but nothing has been done."

HARDWARE RISK FIRM'S BUILDING IS COMPLETED

Wisconsin Hardware Retail Dealers Mutual Fire Insurance Co., of which O. P. Schlafer of Appleton has been president ever since its organization, expects to move into its new $350,000 office building at Stevens Point, Monday, July 17. The finishing touches are now being put on the building which is said to be one of the finest of its kind in the state.

The home office, which employs a clerical force of nearly 100, will occupy the first and second floors. The third floor will be reserved for future use.

'Dip' Pinched Here Chooses Honest Life

One of a trio of pickpockets arrested in Appleton about a year ago has abandoned his criminal ways and is in San Francisco, Calif. living an upright life.

This pleasing discovery was made by Chief George T. Prim of the police department while he was in the west recently. The man recognized Chief Prim and spoke to him, recalling the incident last summer when the trio was retained in jail for several days. "I never forgot the fair treatment I received at your hands," said the man. "One thing I did for you was to tell all the dips I knew to steer clear of Appleton, because you were there and would get them. Since then I have cut loose from the gang and that kind of life and I am going straight."

FOREST FIRES RAGING IN FOUR WESTERN STATES

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Main and Mr. and Mrs. Ames Main visited Mr. Curtis at Appleton early this week.

Put Guard On Mouth If You Would Have Connubial Bliss

To live happily though married "keep your mouth shut." That is the sage advice of Fred Heinemann, Sr., Appleton's veteran "civilian marrying parson," to all newlyweds. Mr. Heinemann has the distinction of being the oldest man in the matrimonial business in this city, having been justice of the peace since 1886. "Most of the marriage tangles are caused by people who want to have the last word," he said. "It takes two to make a quarrel and it never has been otherwise. If married men and women know enough to guard their tongues when they are provoked, they can stave off the worst of troubles." During the 36 years Captain Heinemann has been justice of the peace he has performed about 250 marriage ceremonies and some of the recent couples that came to him were children of couples he had married more than a quarter of a century ago.

There is a belief current that the couples united by a justice of the peace are usually slopers. This Capt. Heinemann denies. A number of the marriages he performs, however, are mixed marriages, that is unions of parties of diverse religions or denominations. Refuting the theory that these marriages generally are unsuccessful only four of the 250 couples he united have been divorced, Mr. Heinemann said.

U. S. WOMEN IN OLYMPIC GAMES--WRECK AT KEWAUSKUM

These girls have been picked to represent the United States in the first international athletic meet for women to be held in the Pershing Stadium, Paris, France, Aug. 20. The team will be led by Miss Floreida Batson, holder of the American record for high and low hurdles.

Every summer some fellow gets a job like Bill Norton's. Bill measures bathing suits at beaches at Washington, D. C., to see that they are not more than six inches above the knees.

When spreading rails derailed this Northwestern train at Kewaukum, Wis., and hurled several coaches into the ditch, none of the 300 passengers suffered death or serious injury.

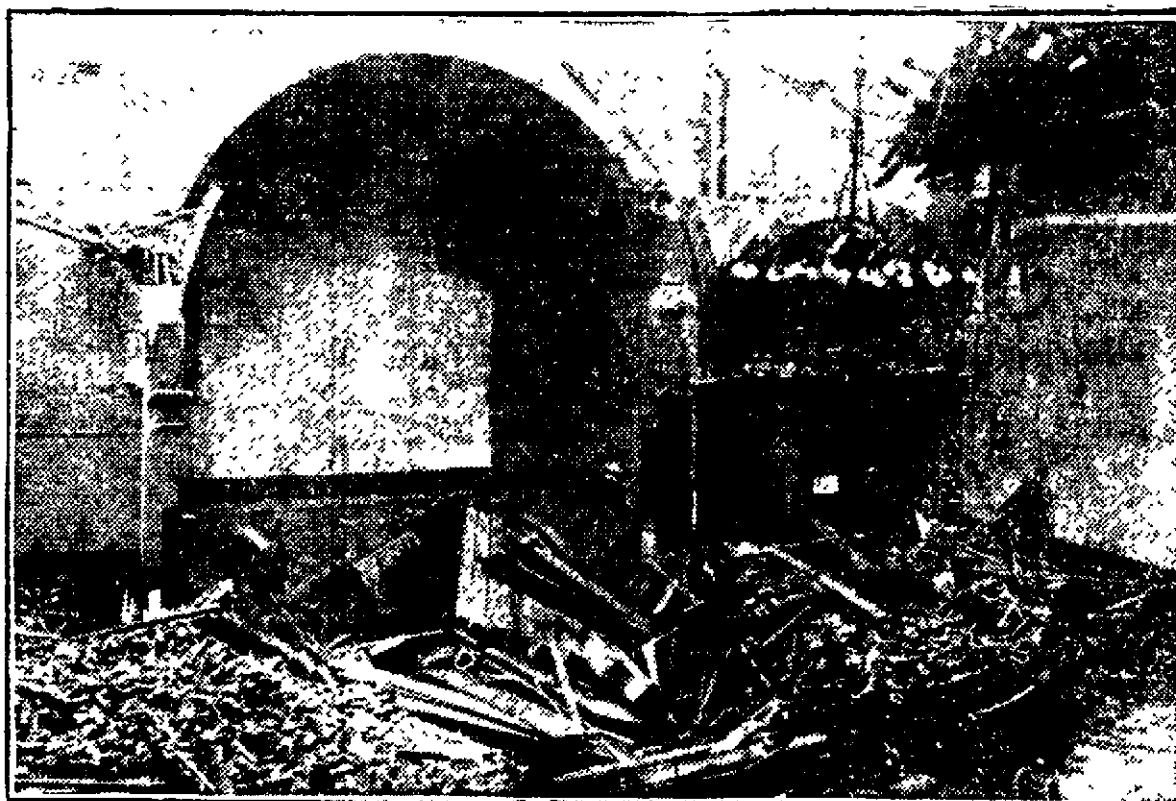

The government and public opinion must sustain the prohibition amendment, President Harding told fellow townsmen in his July 4th address at the centennial celebration in Marion, O., his "old home town." This photo graph shows Harding in the midst of his address.

Miss Louise Harkness, New York heiress to $12,000,000, recently became the bride of David S. Ingalls, Cleveland, war hero and kinsman of William H. Taft.

Jesse Willard, former heavyweight champ, skipping the rope in the American Legion stadium, Hollywood, Cal., preparing for his bout with Jack Dempsey.

Here is a part of the wreckage left in the wake of a tornado that swept through central Manitoba (Can.) killing five, injuring a dozen seriously and doing damage estimated at $2,000,000. This shows the unroofed Presbyterian church. Portions of the organ can be seen in the basement among the wreckage. Portage La Prairie, a town of 5,000, was left a huddle of ruins.

Training for an attempt to swim the English channel, Charles Toth tows a boat with seven passengers for a mile.

Sailing from Seattle for China, Nora and Rose Hsuing, daughters of former Premier Hsuing Hsi-ling, say they'll start the demure maidens of China on the way to flapperism. They're students at Holyoke (Mass.) College.

Under the eye of President Harding, United States Marines charge through wheat field re-enacting Pickett's famous charge at Gettysburg, Pa.

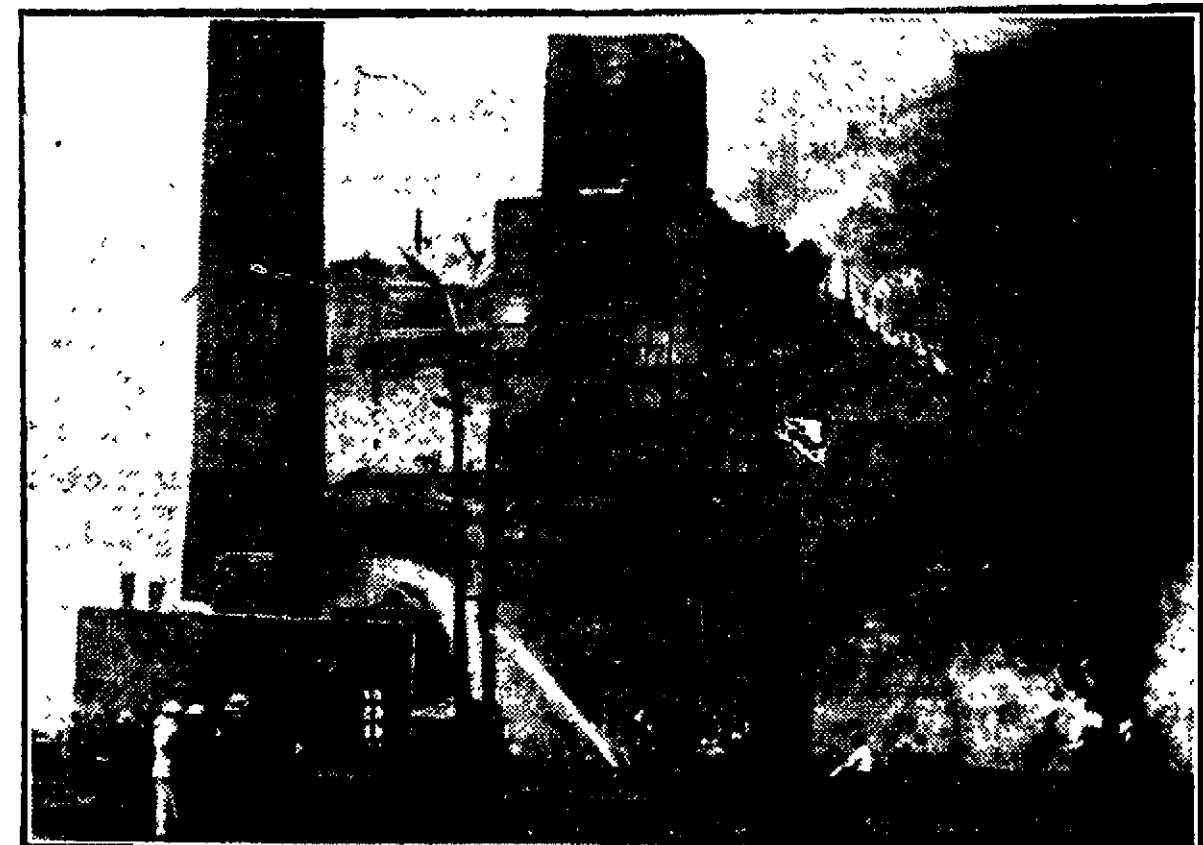

Nellie B. Lane, 18, of Venice, Cal., handles a mere man with ease, the man being Major Mite, 28 inches high and weighing 19 pounds. Nellie weighs 642.

This frail bark is the only barrier between death and 14 members of the crew of the schooner Puritan, wrecked in a fog off Sable Island, N. S. Picture snapped just before the boat was picked up by the U. S. coast guard cutter Tampa.

Walter Hagen, American, takes a drink from the cup he got for winning the British open golf championship.

This shows the fire that swept the water front at Locust Point, Md., near Baltimore, doing damage estimated at nearly $5,000,000. Two elevators, containing 1,274,000 bushels of grain, two warehouses, piers loaded with merchandise and many other structures were destroyed. This picture shows a big elevator owned by the B. & O. railroad in flames.

HOWARD AND SCHULTZ FACE EACH OTHER ON MOUND

Spitball Artist Faces Former Mates In Local Park Sunday Afternoon

Menasha Signs Milwaukeean After Releasing Schatzman—Kaukauna and Green Bay Mix at Kaukauna.

SUNDAY GAMES
Menasha at Appleton.
Green Bay at Kaukauna.
Fond du Lac at Oshkosh.
Hank Schultz, erstwhile Appletonian, will show off his wares for benefit of Appleton fans again next Sunday but his efforts will be directed toward whipping instead of helping the local aggregation. Hank has been signed to hurl for the Menasha club following the release of Doc Schatzman who had an off day last Saturday and was released as a result.

Hank will be opposed on the hill by Earl Howard, the strikeout king of the Fox River Valley league. Howard's arm is in good shape again after a few days' rest and is expected to slow up the slugging Menasha gang. Menasha is hitting .257 this season and is in second place in slugging averages.

The rest of the local team will be the same as last week. Shott will work behind the plate. Britz will protect first base. Goodman at second. Dupain at third. Bergeron in the shortstop and Rogers, Friebe and Goodman in the outer gardens. An enormous crowd is expected to see Hank and Earl mix in a hurling duel. Kaukauna is all set for its game with Green Bay on the Kaukauna park. The battle was scheduled for the Bay City but because a game scheduled for Kaukauna was transferred to Green Bay, the Baymen will play in the Electric City tomorrow.

Oshkosh and Fond du Lac will meet at Fondy in what should be an excellent game. Oshkosh is in a tie for first place while Fond du Lac is next to the bottom but the Fondy club has been playing pretty good ball.

HORNSBY GETS 21ST HOMER OF SEASON

Four Base Wallop in Ninth Inning Enables Cardinals to Win Over Pirates

St. Louis—Roger Hornsby's home run, his twenty-first of the season, with Smith on first, in the ninth inning, gave the Cardinals their second straight victory over Brooklyn last Friday, 6 to 5. Hornsby's long leads all the hitting batters in the major leagues as Williams, the American league leader, has twenty. Al Smith of the Cardinals hit his ninth homer of the year in the eighth. Wheat of Brooklyn also hit a homer, it coming with one on in the third against Hanes. The victory for the Cardinals was the first over Vance this year. He had previously beaten them twice. St. Louis outbatted Brooklyn, fourteen to eight. Lavan had four out of four.

TRAILING THE TEAMS

The pace setting Browns dropped a 13 inning game to Boston 5 to 4 after Urban Shocker blanked the Red Sox in the first game. Ken Williams gave vent to an outburst in the first game, disputing Umpire Evans' decisions and was banished. Willie Walker turned in his eighteenth homer while the Philadelphia Athletics trimmed Chicago 6 to 3 with the aid of Rommel's clever twirling. Lee Meadows pitched the Phillies to a 3 to 1 decision over Cincinnati and Alexander held Boston in check while his Cub team mates pounded two pitchers for a 7-2 victory. Ty Cobb's terrific hitting was a feature of Detroit's double victory over Washington. The Tiger leader collected seven hits in eleven times at bat. During the ninth inning of the second game in which the Tigers scored nine runs, Pinch Hitter Woodhall came to bat twice and collected a brace of hits.

Spectacles Are No Hindrance To Him

PRONOUNCE IT TOE-PORCER

George Toporcer has been a much talked about individual in the National League. Wearing heavy glasses to correct near-sightedness, his batting was the sensation of the circuit while subbing for Shortstop Lavan of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Perhaps the name of no player who has broken into the majors has been mispronounced as much as that of Toporcer. Recently, when Evans asked him how to do it, he replied: "Say it this way—Toe-porc-er. Accent the pore and you have it."

By Billy Evans
A phenomenon is George Toporcer of the St. Louis Cardinals.

A baseball is nine inches in circumference. Scientists claim that to accurately follow the course of so small an object one must have perfect vision.

Not so with George Toporcer. He defies the laws of science. His vision is imperfect. When on the ball field he is forced to wear double banded lenses in order to properly focus.

When Toporcer joined the Cardinals in the spring of 1921, he was hailed as a curiosity. No one for a minute figured it would be possible to solve big league pitching with a pair of eyes that needed heavy glasses to right the vision.

The idea that a player could perform in the infield, handicapped by bad eyes and wearing glasses, was as so ridiculous. True, Pitcher Meadows had been successful, but pitching was different from playing the infield.

While Toporcer will never be a Rogers Hornsby yet he has proved a most valuable player for the St. Louis club.

In the spring of last year, when Milton Stock was late in reporting, Hornsby moved over to third in place of Stock and Toporcer filled in most acceptably at second.

It would be impossible to compute what a great aid Toporcer proved to be for the Cardinals in the spring of the present campaign.

PINCH ROLE

Illness on the spring training trip put Johnny Lavan, the Cardinals' shortstop, out of the running. Rickey must have a shortstop at once. Once again the pinch role was handed to Toporcer.

How Toporcer performed while Lavan was ill is now a matter of history. His batting was the sensation of the first two months of play. In the first 36 games he hit better than .400.

On May 15 and 16 of this year he achieved the unique distinction of having rapped out two triples and two home runs in four successive trips to the plate.

That is some feat for a leather-necked veteran to say nothing of a pink cheeked "four eyed" rookie.

Toporcer is a left handed hitter and has been unusually successful against southpaw pitching.

How does Toporcer feel facing the speedy shots of the leading National League pitchers? Here is his own answer:

"It requires no more nerve to face big league pitching with glasses than without them. If a player wearing glasses is hit in the region of the eye he surely is in for some trouble. However, let a pitcher hit a batter with out glasses in the region of the eye and you can draw your own conclusion. It's about an equal chance either way."

Toporcer has worn glasses since he was 11 years old. He is now 23. The spectacles are for near-sightedness.

New Schedule Is Ready For Outagamie Teams

Interlakes Will Play Freedom Team At Interlake Park on Sunday

Two more games and the first half of the Outagamie County league's baseball season will be history. The schedule for the second half of the season has been sent to league directors for their approval.

The county teams have been playing up some very creditable games and no little interest has been aroused in the contests. The Interlake team, which represents Appleton in the league, has probably suffered more than any other team from lack of support of the fans which is due no doubt to the fact that the city has a team in the Valley circuit. But it would be well worth the while of baseball enthusiasts to attend some of the games that are played on the Interlake diamond.

Next Sunday the Pulpmakers' will meet the team from Freedom at Interlake park. Both outfits are getting into fine shape for the tussle which promises to be hotly contested.

PROSPECTS ARE FINE FOR OLYMPIC GAMES

The statistics taken from the 1922 field of school and college track athletes show an encouraging crop for what Olympic games are to be held in the coming two years. First the international games booked for Los Angeles in 1923 and the eighth Olympiad to be held in France.

A thorough survey has been made of all the athletes competing this year for the American educational institutions from which the majority of the material generally is selected. Sprinters are plentiful at this time, both from the scholastic fields and the colleges. Ten school boys have been credited throughout the country as having done the 100 yards in less than 10 seconds. From reports gathered from all parts of the states the sprinting field is productive of several high-class youngsters.

PRINTERS

A few of the scholastic star sprinters are: Joe DiCenzo of Tulouche high school, Illinois; Johnny Cameron of Evanston, Illinois; Herschel Smith, San Fernando, California; and Kenneth Gold, Shattuck school, Fairbault, Minnesota.

MILERS

Mile runners have been of the expected standard among the school boys. Four or five have done better than 4 minutes and 40 seconds. Perhaps the most promising lad is William J. Cox of Shop high school, Rochester, N. Y., the national champion.

The west has turned out an excellent crop of men for the field events. Particularly in the weights are the college men from the middle and far west more proficient.

ROUGH AND REDS CAN'T AGREE ON SALARY QUESTION

Former Cincinnati Ball Player is Fishing While He Holds Out

BY ROY GROVE
Oakland City, Ind.—What does a hold-out do in the middle of a busy baseball season?

Some of them play semi-pro, and again some of them just hold out.

Take Eddie Roush, for instance, a famous batsman of the Cincinnati Reds, a hold out of the first class. Eddy and the Cincinnati club have held each other to a "no hit, no run contest" over a three-year contract for $18,000, and the game's still running into extra innings.

"I don't intend to be a hold-out," says Eddie, "it's business with me. If anybody is the hold out it's the Cincinnati club that is doing the holding. So if it is hold outs you want you will have to go over and see the Cincinnati bunch."

20 PER CENT DIVIDENDS
"They say they can't afford to pay me $18,000 on a three-year contract, that they are losing money. I believe that last year they paid 20 per cent dividends. Losing money and paying dividends is some baseball club."

"No, we didn't argue about anything. I just drop in and we 'no' each other and I walk out and go back to fishing."

"I can hook up with several semi-pro teams. I have offers that for six weeks, but I haven't decided."

PREFERS NEW YORK
"I would rather be with Cincinnati than any other club in the league, or any other league for that matter. But if it came to second choice I would prefer the New York club."

"Not for the sake of being with New York, but because of McGraw. He's a wonderful manager and he makes a fellow play baseball and do things he never knew he could do before."

"But I am not worrying what I am going to do or what the Cincinnati club is going to do. I am satisfied here on the farm—and—and at—fishing."

NOTHING BUT FISH
"Why, if it comes to a showdown I can catch $18 worth of fish out there in the Potomac river," says Eddie with a sly glance.

"Then he lightened up and added, '—and maybe I can sell them to the Cincinnati club, huh?'"

Meusel's erect throw to McCall in the ninth ended Wood at third and ended a Cleveland rally. Score: Cleveland . . . 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 5 1

Boston—St. Louis and Boston divided honors on Friday. Shocker won the first game for the visitors, 1 to 0, and Burns' home run over the left field fence off Pruett in the thirteenth gave Boston the second, 5 to 4.

Ellerbe's single, Shocker's bunt and Gerber's single in the third scored the only run of the opening game. Williams was put out of the game for questioning Umpire Evans' judgment on balls and strikes.

Two of the Boston runs in the second game resulted from doubles by pinch hitters, Harris and Smith. Score:

FIRST WARD TEAM OF LEGION LEAGUE STILL UNDEFEATED

First Beats Fourth—Sixth Wins From Second—Fifth Swamps Third

The Twilight leaguers took their weekly swing at the big ball Friday evening and the citizens witnessed wild scenes as the contests warmed up.

Graef's First ward team finished on top again, thus preserving its record of no defeats, when it took the game from the Fourth warders by a score of 9 to 8. As the count indicates it was anybody's game until the last run was scored by the First ward team in the final frame. The First ward probably has the strongest team of the circuit but the Fourth ward outfit showed up well also. Batteries: First ward, Graef and Sylvester.

Fourth ward Hantschel and Gaylor Jones park was the scene of an awful beating administered to the Third ward by the Fifth ward aggregation. The game ended in a 24 to 3 score. This contest is under protest, however, by the Third warders who maintain that their opponents played men on their team who live in the Third ward, which is said to be against the rules of the league.

The sixth warders entertained the Second ward team at the Columbus school diamond and handed their guests a 9 to 2 wallop. The two tallies of the Second ward were registered in the first inning and after that they never saw home again. Schuerle's Sixth ward outfit has been going good and will give the mighty Firsts a lively tussle.

Hoover Wins Scull Title In England

Henley On Thames—Walter M. Hoover, American champion oarsman, won the diamond sculls race here Saturday.

Hoover defeated J. Beresford Jr. of the Thames Rowing club in the final for the sculls in the Henley regatta. Hoover's victory was an easy one. The time was 9 minutes 32 seconds.

Hoover's victory brings the diamond sculls title to the United States for the fourth time.

In three out of four years from 1887 to 1900 inclusive the title came to the United States the first time in possession of E. H. Hoyt, son of Jim Ten Eyck, famed coach of Syracuse university, and the next two times in 1899 and 1900 through E. H. Howell of New York, then a student at Trinity Hall, Cambridge.

Green Bay Imports Noted Big Leaguer to Hurl Against Kaukauna

Kaukauna—A pitching duel is in prospect for Kaukauna fans Sunday when "Hippo" Vaughn, formerly of the Chicago Cubs, climbs the mound for Green Bay while Trentman, former Brewer, Indian and Bayman, essays the hurling duties for Brautigan's team. Kaukauna was notified Friday that Vaughn would do the hurling for Green Bay. The big boy is in bad with organized baseball but he has been cutting some wide swaths in the semi-pros since breaking with the Cubs.

Diederich Kaukauna's old stand-by has been working pretty hard of late and needs a rest. He may be used later in the season, it is said.

SCARAMOUCHE

by Rafael Sabatini

BEGIN HERE TODAY

To escape hanging on the charge of sedition, ANDE-LOUIS MOREAU flees from his native town of Garroville and enlists his identity by joining a band of strolling players in which he makes a great success in the part of SCARAMOUCHE. His flight has caused him to delay revenge on the great and powerful MARQUIS DE LA TOUR D'AZYR who tricked Andre-Louis' dearest friend, PHILIPPE DE VILMORIN, into a duel and then killed him because he feared the dearest's "dangerous gift of eloquence." Over the dead body of his friend, Andre-Louis swore to carry on the work of reforming the lot of the down-trodden peasants. Scaramouche as he is now called, falls in love with CLIMENE daughter of MONSIEUR BINET, the owner of the troupe. They become engaged and Andre-Louis has forgotten ALINE DE KERCADIOU, the friend of his childhood, who horrified him by listening to the suit of the Marquis. He unexpectedly meets ALINE GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII
"The door," Aline commanded her footman, "and 'Mount here beside me," she commanded Andre-Louis, in the same breath.

"A moment, Aline." He turned to his companion, who was all amazement, and to Harlequin and Columbine, who had that moment come up to share it. "You permit me, Climene," said he, breathlessly. But it was more a statement than a question. "Harlequin will take care of you. Au revoir, at dinner."

With that he sprang into the cabriolet without waiting for a reply, leaving the three comedians staring after it, open-mouthed. Then Harlequin laughed. "A prince in disguise, our Scaramouche," said he.

The frown melted from Climene's brow. Resentment changed to bewilderment.

"But who is she?" "His sister, of course," said Harlequin, quite definitely. In the carriage Aline was considering Andre-Louis with grave eyes. Her lips slightly compressed, with a tinge of brown between her finely drawn eyebrows.

"You have taken to queer company, Andre," was the first thing she said to him. "Or else I am mistaken in thinking that your companion was Mlle. Binet of the Theatre Feydaud."

"You are not mistaken. But I had not imagined Mlle. Binet was so famous already."

"Oh, as to that..." mademoiselle shrugged. "It is simply that I was at the play last night."

"You were at the Feydaud last night? And I never saw you?" "Were you there, too?"

"Was I there?" he cried. Then he checked, and abruptly changed his tone. "Oh, yes I was there," he said as commonplace as he could, beset by a sudden reluctance to avow that he had so willingly descended to depths that she must account unworthy.

"I understand," said she, and compressed her lips a little more tightly. "But what do you understand?"

"The rare attractions of Mlle. Binet. Naturally you would be at the theatre. Do you know that you disappoint me, Andre? I was foolish enough to imagine you to be different; rather above such trivial pursuits. I conceived you something of an idealist."

"Sheer flattery." "So I perceive. But you misled me. With your gift of acting I wonder that you haven't joined Mlle. Binet's troupe."

"I have," said he. He saw first incredulity, then consternation, and lastly disgust over spread her face.

"Of course," said she, after a long pause, "that would have the advantage of bringing you closer to your charmer."

"That was only one of the inducements. There was another. Finding myself forced to choose between the stage and the gallows, I had the incredible weakness to prefer the former. Shall I stop the carriage and remove the contamination of my disgusting person? Or shall I tell you how it happened?"

"Tell me how it happened first. Then we will decide."

He told her how he met the Binet troupe, and how the men of the marchouses forced upon him the discovery that in its bosom he could lie safely lost until the hue and cry had died down. The explanation dissolved her frown.

"My poor Andre, why didn't you tell me this at first?" "For one thing, you didn't give me time; for another I feared to shock you with the spectacle of my degradation. What, did you think of the play last night?" he continued.

"It was amusing and well conceived." "Let me present you to the author."

"You? But the company is one of the improvisers." "Even improvisers require an author to write their scenarios. Soon I shall be writing plays in the modern manner."

"You deceive yourself, my poor Andre. The piece last night would have been nothing without the players. You are fortunate in your Scaramouche."

"In confidence—I present you to him."

"You—Scaramouche? You?" She turned to regard him fully. He smiled his close-lipped smile that made wrinkles like gashes in his cheeks. He nodded.

"And I didn't recognize you!" "I thank you for the tribute. You imagined, of course, that I was a scene-shifter. And now the question I have been burning to ask. Why are you in Nantes, Aline?"

"I am on a visit to my aunt, Mme. de Sautron. She is receiving several guests today. M. de La Tour d'AZYR is to be one of them."

Andre-Louis frowned and sighed. "Did you ever hear, Aline, how poor Philippe de Vilmorin came by his end?"

"Yes; I was told, first by my uncle, then by M. de La Tour d'AZYR, himself."

"Did not that help you to decide this marriage question?" "How could it? You don't expect me to judge between men in matters such as these?"

"If you cannot judge, it is that you do not wish to judge." His tone became harsh. "Witfully you close your eyes to justice that might check the course of your unhealthy, unnatural ambition."

"I think I had better let you abate so that you may go back to practice virtue and honor with your theater wench."

"If you must speak of her at all," he interrupted hotly, "you'll speak of her as my wife."

Amazement smothered her anger. Her pallor deepened. "My God!" she said, and looked at him in horror. In horror she asked him presently, "You are married—married to that?"

"Not yet. But I shall be, soon. And let me tell you that the girl whom you visit with your ignorant contempt is as good and pure as you are, Aline. She has wit and talent which have placed her where she is and shall carry her a deal farther. And she has the womanliness to be guided by natural instincts in the selection of her mate."

"You will descend this instant!" she told him fiercely. "That you should dare to make a comparison between me and that..."

"And my wife-to-be," he interrupted at once, "she could speak, he is famous word. He owned the deed for himself without waiting for the footman and leapt down. 'My compliments,' said he, 'to the assassin you are to marry.' He slammed the door. 'Drive on!' he bade the coachman."

He got back to the inn to find the company at table. Harlequin and Columbine had spread the tale of the prince in disguise, up into the choir of a princess, and earned off by her, and it was a tale that had lost nothing in the telling.

Climene had been silent and thoughtful. Clearly, her Scaramouche must be vastly other than he had hitherto appeared, or else that great lady and he would never have used such familiarity with each other. Imagining him no better than he was, Climene had made him her own. And now she was to see to the reward of disinterested affection.

Even old Binet's secret hostility toward Andre-Louis melted before this astounding revelation. He had punched his daughter's ears quite playfully. "Ah, ah, trust you to have penetrated his disguise, my child!"

Her father offended her Scaramouche was clearly a great gentleman, an eccentric if you please, but a man born. And she was to be his lady. Her father must learn to treat her differently.

She looked shyly—with a new shyness—at her lover when he came into the room where they were dining. She observed for the first time that proud carriage of the head with the chin thrust forward, that was a trick of his, and she noticed with what grace he moved the grace of one who in youth has had his dancing masters and fencing masters.

SAVE MONEY BY PRAISING WIFE'S TASTE FOR GOWNS

Designer for Mrs. Harding
Says Good Taste is Always Fashionable

BY MARIAN HALE
"The greatest cause of extravagance on the part of the American wife is the American husband."

So says Harry Collins, one of America's foremost style authorities, who costumes Mrs. Warren G. Harding.

"More compliments, fewer bills," he says. When a wife appears to advantage in a certain gown the husband should tell her about it.

"As long as a man is more interested in what his wife spends than in what she gets, the wife will be extravagant in trying to find the one gown that will cause him to say, 'My dear, you look charming.'"

"And when she does find the gown he likes, she will love to wear it. She will make fewer mistakes and spend less money."

I asked the designer whether he believed Mrs. Harding exerted any great influence on current styles.

Mrs. Harding could well set a standard for intelligent dressing," he replied.

"But she is by no means an exploiter of fads or fashions as French queens or Roman empresses. To set styles, a woman must have nothing else to do but that."

"No woman for whom I design is more appreciative of good materials and designs than Mrs. Harding. She knows what is suited to her."

"Mrs. Harding is always correctly, appropriately and becomingly gowned, but at no time do her clothes seem of greater importance than herself. That is the secret of good dressing."

"If all women purchased their gowns as carefully as Mrs. Harding they would be able to wear them two or three seasons. There is no such thing as absolute style. Women should wear things suited to them and be distinctive rather than faddish."

"The silhouette is practically the same today as 10 years ago. It is probable it will remain so for some time. I do not believe women over will go back to the stiff corseted figure of half a century ago."

"Skirt length? About eight and a half inches above for the street, and less for evening gowns—say three inches before the season is over," says Collins.

FINISHINGS AND TRIMMINGS FOR HOME DRESSMAKER

BY MARJORIE KINNEY
Supervisor of Clothing, School of Household Science and Art, Pratt Institute

(This is the fifth of Miss Kinney's lessons in home dressmaking. It takes up the matter of finishes and trimmings.)

Many of the prettiest and most expensive dresses are finished with "self trimmings" this season. This means trimmings made of the materials comprising the dress, generally made by hand.

Bindings are always popular and when carefully sewed are a pleasing finish for edges. Skirts are often bound around the bottom, aprons and draped pieces bound on edges and collars, cuffs, neck lines and sashes finished in this way.

A binding should be cut on the true bias and all pieces made parallel with the selvage. This means the width desired when finished plus two seams.

HOW TO START

FIRST STEP—Baste the binding to the edge on the wrong side, seam to the wrong side and stitch. In some materials this seam may be machinestitched, but on soft satin, silks, georgette and voiles it is safer to sew it by hand. Allow a large enough pleat at the corners to make a square turn.

SECOND STEP—Fold the binding back, holding the right side toward you in order that you may see an even finished width. Baste exactly in the crease.

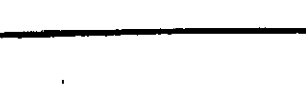

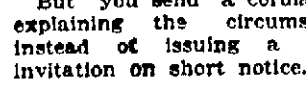

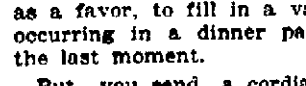

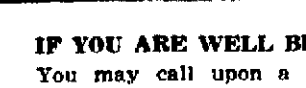

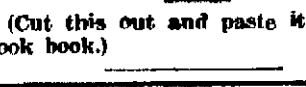

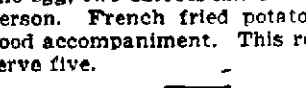

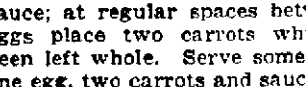

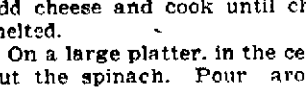

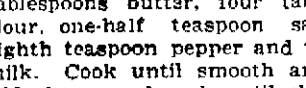

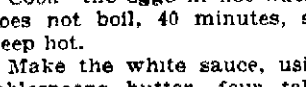

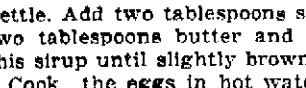

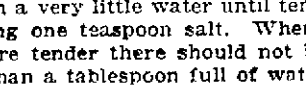

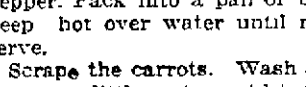

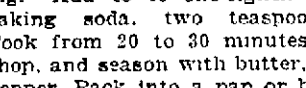

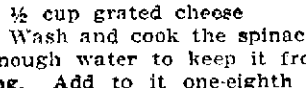

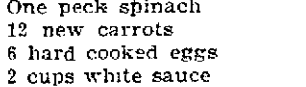

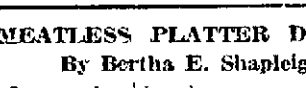

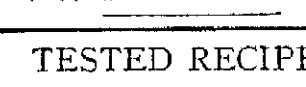

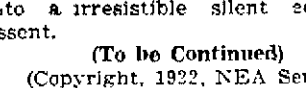

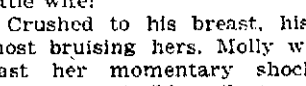

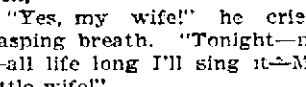

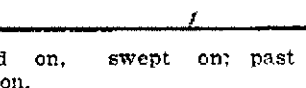

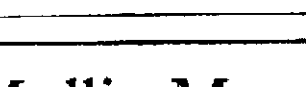

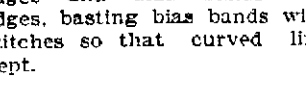

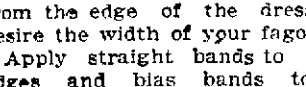

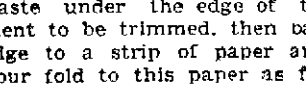

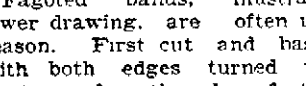

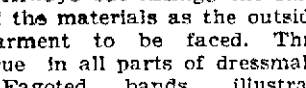

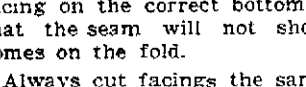

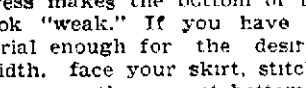

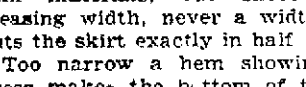

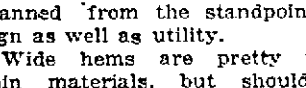

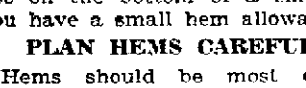

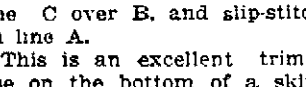

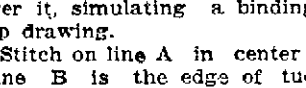

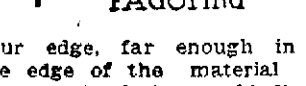

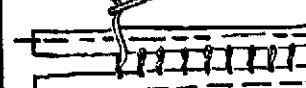

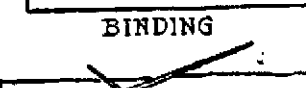

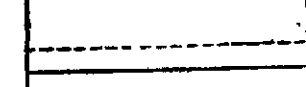

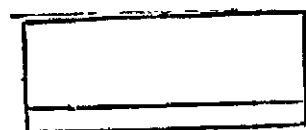

THIRD STEP—Press on this basting line on the wrong side, remove the basting, and you have a marked line for the last turn of your fold.

FOURTH STEP—Turn under your second seam a sort distance and pin it down, slip-stitch this second seam so that no stitch shows on the right side. When putting in your second sewing line, if you are not careful the binding will "crease." In other words, you are not bringing it straight over the wrong side; either you are stretching it, or pulling it in a bit, but by pinning only a short distance at a time and watching the right side you will have no trouble.

DOUBLE BASTE SEAM

Chiffon bindings are often made double. Cut them twice the desired finished width with plus one seam. Fold and baste the chiffon through the middle. Stitch to edge with seam to wrong side. Fold over and slip-stitch down, sewing through your fold.

A binding may be made on a straight edge, using the edge of the material for the binding. Stitch in a tuck to the wrong side along

Household Hints

HAND BAGS

Persian cashmere hand bags are one of the most recent novelties to reach this side of the water. They are mounted on silver or dark metal.

LINGERIE

Paris designers say that the price of lingerie will not go down perceptibly this season as the cost of hand-work and materials make this impossible.

CAPEES

Capes of raincoats are highly desirable for summer wear. They are used as raincoats as well. They were featured at the recent Ascott races in England.

CHIN COLLARS

Chin collars are being featured on the fur coats now made up for winter instead of the shawl and wide collars so much used last season.

Burnt peacock is a new type of fashionable feather for hats. Usually it is made into a high standing ornament resembling an aigrette. Shorter lengths are made into cockades for tricorns.

NATURE FACTS AND FREAKS

THE BOB CAT OF MARSHAL FOCH

By Prof. M. J. Elrod

No animal in recent years has received the recognition and advertising of the bob cat or wild cat given by the American Legion to General Joffre at the recent Legion convention at Kansas City, and which now looks at visitors through bars at the Paris zoological park.

During its short life of three months prior to the Kansas City convention, it knew only the Montana state adjutant, his wife, a few friends and the collie dog. Gentle very playful, friendly, it romped the house, and rolled over the dog in playful mood.

It was a sad parting when the bob cat was bundled into an airship with the adjutant and his companion for its flight of nearly 800 miles, from Miles City to Kansas City. No wild animal ever had such a ride. At night, when the aviators found lodging where they landed, the confiding kitten left its bed to crawl under the bed clothes between the aviators. It took its place in the airship as a matter of course. It refused to be led, but followed like a dog, the leash dragging.

The noise and roar of the convention amazed the gentle animal. Transferred from friendly hands to those who knew only that it was a wild cat, caged, isolated, always among noise and strangers, its whole life was changed. Could the Persian children know of its sweet and happy kitten life they would feel differently, perhaps, toward the little American prisoner.

Adventures Of The Twins

Oliver Roberts Barton

The White Dove
Away started the Twins over the Seven Valleys to the Kingdom of the Korknotts.

As they passed the white palace of the Princess Therna she gazed sadly down from her window in a tall tower.

She sighed, but not a word of greeting could she call to them. She had a secret that she dared to tell no one.

She kissed a white dove and sent it fluttering down from her tower to the green meadow where the road ran. It perched on a fence and then flew towards the Twins and settled on Nancy's shoulder.

"I shall stay with you until you are safely across the Seven Valleys," it cooed, "for they are dangerous to travelers. Besides Twelve Toes, the Sorcerer, is still watching you from afar. The first valley is the Curlew Valley. The only way to get out of it is by the postern gate. And the postern gate is hard to find. But I'll help you; don't get discouraged."

As the dove finished speaking the Twins came to a place that looked like the edge of the world. They were on a high precipice. Houses, trees and fields looked like toys below them.

"This is Curlew Valley," said the dove. "The path down into it begins behind that large rock over yonder. Keep to the path and no matter what you see don't turn aside until I tell you."

"Thank you," said Nancy, reaching up and stroking its soft, white feathers lovingly. "We'll try to do everything you say."

The dove flew away then, down toward the valley below, and lighted on a top branch of an Indiantoby tree. The Twins could no longer see it, but they could hear its soft voice cooing to them encouragingly.

"Come," said Nick. "We'll have to hurry, Nancy." And he started off toward the rock to find the path that led down into Curlew Valley.

YOUR JOB

BY ELIZABETH ARNOLD

Employment Expert

If you know what you want and are determined to get it, you are way ahead of most people. The first step is to know yourself. Do you work better with your head or your hands? Are you eye-minded or ear-minded? Do you work well with people, or do you work better alone? Are you good at filing reports, and keeping details in an orderly manner, or does this kind of thing irritate you? Do you prefer outside work or sales where you are thrown with people? Beside studying yourself, study industry and business. The best way to study jobs is to talk with the people who are doing them. Find out what their duties are and how they learned to do them. When you find the kind of work you think you are fitted for, the next step is to study the requirements, training and experience demanded, and how to get them.

MOVE IN CHINA FOR NEW PARLIAMENT

By Associated Press

Peking—China has the prospect of a representative republican parliament within the month, the first gathering of that body in five years. Its first task will be the selection of a president and inclusion in Loyang is General Wu Pei Fu, who is regarded by many as the "strong man" needed to bring his country out of the chaos of civil strife. His persistent refusal of the presidency has not discouraged his supporters; nor has his retirement to Loyang weakened his popularity. It is pointed out that his power places him in a position of overstrength as the result of the overthrow of Sun Yat Sen in the south, the defeat of Chang Tso Lin Manchurian war lord and the ousting of Hsu Shih Chang, three moves which he guided.

Only 19 When She Graduates From College

Austin, Tex.—Next to Robert Lee Moore, who in 1901 received his degree as master of arts when only 18 years and six months old, Miss Rosalind Stripling, 19 is the youngest graduate upon whom the University of Texas has ever conferred such an honor.

Among girl students she holds the age-or rather youth-record for the university. Besides winning her degree, Miss Stripling earned a substantial sum during her course, as a tutor of freshmen in elementary chemistry. The title of her thesis was "The Grignard Reaction."

She was prominent in women's varsity athletics. Miss Stripling's father is principal of the Manor Schools and her mother has taught also.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY

Today's word is PERPETUATE. It's pronounced per-pet-u-ate. The first e as in fern, the second e short, the u as in unite, and the a long. Accent is on the second syllable. It means—to cause to endure, or to be continued, indefinitely. It comes from the Latin perpetuus, perpetuare, meaning to perpetuate. It's used like this: Memorial Day exercises tend to perpetuate memories of the nation's heroes.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

Dieting is the great indoor sport among American women, but not among the Orientals. In certain parts of India, corpulent women take their pick of the matrimonial chances. A woman who can move without assistance is only an indifferent beauty. To obtain the unwieldiness so desirable to lure suitors, mothers feed their daughters cuscus which promotes fat.

—K. F. Matthews of Waukesha, was in Appleton Tuesday on business.

Whom Shall Mollie Marry?

Chapter 2 — Matinee Idol Makes Love

Music and the dance were in the blood of MOLLY WAYNE, that night as she fox trotted on the floor of the Midvale Boat Club. With her were three suitors, each an avowed candidate for her hand. There BEN WHEELER, keen and efficient manufacturer, and BILLY MARTON, youthful architect. And then there was the good looking dancer then holding her in his arms.

DONALD MANNING, leading man in the local stock company. "Come out in the 'kiss for a moment,'" Don pleaded, "I want to talk to you."

In the skiff Don opened his silk shirt at the throat and with the moonlight on his handsome features looked unbelievably like some figure in a romantic play.

"I just had to tell your first of all people, the glorious news!" he was saying. "I've accepted the lead in the Pittsburgh Empire Stock Company. Think of it, Molly! Four years ago when I was a tiny party here and now—Pittsburgh! Twice the size of Midvale! I'm only 25; who knows but that two years from now it may be Broadway—my name in light—then London, money, fame!"

"Don!" Oh, how WONDERFUL! Molly breathed, imagination aglow. "You lucky, lucky boy!"

At her words Don slipped to his knees before her.

"Am I lucky?" His voice was vibrant with feeling, thrilling Molly through and through her being. "Tell me. Don't you know that without you to share it, success won't mean a thing to me?"

He caught her hands and kissed the palms.

"Why, Don?" She laughed, rather breathlessly, trying to draw her hands away. "Really—honestly, I must say it, stale and stupid as it sounds—but this is—so sudden."

"Not to me!" His fervor lighted fires in her blood. "I've been wild about you, Molly, for years. Molly, sweet, be my own girl, dear. I do love you so—"

Molly put a hand over his lips. "Don, stop!" She tried with eagerness to hide deep emotions. "This isn't a time to say such things—under a full moon, in May, giddy with dancing. How'll you feel tomorrow to realize you've asked a girl to be your wife?"

He caught the hand at his lips and kissed it. But at the word "wife" he made ever so slight a movement, less than a start, more a catching of the breath. But to Molly it was quite perceptible and it seemed as though her heart had stopped beating and would never go on again. Then, with a rush, Don's emotion stronger than he had counted on, swept on; past calculation, "Yes, my wife!" he cried on a gasping breath. "Tonight—next year—all life long I'll sing it—Molly, my little wife!"

Crushed to his breast, his lips almost bruising hers, Molly was swept past her momentary shock, away into an irresistible silent ecstasy of assent.

TESTED RECIPE

MEATLESS PLATTER DINNER

By Bertha E. Shapleigh

One peck spinach
12 new carrots
6 hard cooked eggs
2 cups white sauce
½ cup grated cheese

Wash and cook the spinach in just enough water to keep it from burning. Add to it one-eighth teaspoon baking soda, two teaspoons salt. Cook from 20 to 30 minutes, drain, chop, and season with butter, salt and pepper. Pack into a pan or bowl, and keep hot over water until ready to serve.

Scrape the carrots. Wash and cook in a very little water until tender, adding one teaspoon salt. When carrots are tender there should not be more than a tablespoon full of water in the kettle. Add two tablespoons sugar and two tablespoons butter and cook in this syrup until slightly browned.

Cook the eggs in hot water, which does not boil, 40 minutes, shell and keep hot.

Make the white sauce, using three tablespoons butter, four tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper and two cups milk. Cook until smooth and thick, add cheese and cook until cheese has melted.

On a large platter, in the center turn out the spinach. Pour around the sauce; at regular spaces between the eggs place two carrots which have been left whole. Serve some spinach, one egg, two carrots and sauce to each person. French fried potatoes are a good accompaniment. This recipe will serve five.

CARD OF THANKS

The undersigned herewith wishes to extend his sincere thanks to relatives and friends who so readily and willingly gave their support during the illness of his deceased wife Caroline. Also for the kind service rendered after the Lord called his beloved wife into Eternity. Likewise to the flower girls and the pallbearers for their service, the men's choir of the Red church for its inspiring songs and Rev. E. D. Becker for the words of comfort and to all from near and far who expressed their sympathy by attending the funeral service. He herewith extends his heartfelt thanks. In this world man has no certain dwelling place, and is merely a pilgrim, but a precious hope is expressed in the following lines: "The sands of time are sinking. The dawn of heaven breaks. The summer morn I've sighed for. The fair, sweet morn awakes. O dark hath been the midnight. But day-spring is at hand. And glory, glory dwelleth. In Immanuel's land." Richard Boerner.

LAKE-ST. SITE ONLY PLACE FOR PROPOSED BRIDGE

Beach and east thereof be best served by a viaduct at this point.

"The interurban railway company operating between Appleton and Neenah-Menasha would also be in a position to advantageously use a viaduct at this point and thus improve the interurban transportation facilities."

"It was argued in favor of the Cherry street site that the physical location is the most favorable, and the cost of construction consequently lower; that a very large proportion of the travel using the present Lake street crossing turned to the west at Foster street and would be served by a viaduct at Cherry street; that all of the growth of the city of Appleton was toward the west, and that it would be a matter of a few years only until the center of population and business would be North of Cherry street."

"All possible sites have been most carefully examined by the commission and its agents, their relative costs investigated and every fact submitted at the two hearings has been most carefully considered."

"Relative to the Cherry street location, the Commission is unanimously of the opinion that a bridge at this point could not be designed as a necessity, and that as far as the interests of the city of Appleton itself are concerned, this bridge would serve no purposes worth its costs. As far as the interest of the state in the through travel through this district is concerned, the Cherry street bridge would serve no purpose that cannot be better served by an additional belt connection to the west of the Fox River, relieving not only the congestion at Appleton but also the congested conditions on state trunk highway No. 15 through the cities of Neenah and Menasha in so far as each condition are caused by the through travel not desiring to stop at either of the three cities in question."

"The commission would have been inclined to declare the Lake street viaduct, along the general lines suggested by John Lowmyer, and others, a necessity, both from the standpoint of the city of Appleton, inasmuch as such a viaduct would serve well every local purpose, and from the standpoint of the state, between the three cities named, in that it would accommodate the inter-city traffic, the traffic from and to Waverly beach, and from and to all points southeast of Appleton."

"However, the commission finds insuperable difficulties in the way of designing this viaduct as a necessity at the present time. Subsection 6 of Section 1321a provides that when a bridge is constructed by a municipality alone, such municipality shall pay one-third the cost thereof, that the county shall in such case pay one-third of the cost, and that the state likewise shall pay one-third of the cost. Under this provision the state's share of the cost of a high level viaduct built near Lake Street would not be less than $25,000. Subsection 7 of Section 1321a provides that 'if the amount appropriated for any year shall not be sufficient to pay the state's share of all bridges certified in full, the appropriation for the ensuing year may be drawn upon to supply such sums as are necessary.'"

"The appropriation available for the construction of bridges under Section 1321a is $100,000 annually, and the utmost that could be made available would be the appropriation for two years. Petitions heretofore granted by the Commission leave available approximately $55,000.00 of the appropriation for the fiscal year 1922-23 and the maximum that could be made available for the project under consideration would be that sum plus the appropriation for the fiscal year 1923-24 and the total of these sums falls short of the state's one-third share."

"The State Highway Commission believes that the conditions obtaining at Appleton needed relief. It is not at all convinced that the best method of relief is the construction of the viaduct at Cherry street. In the light of its present knowledge, the commission is of the opinion that the proper means of local relief is to build a high level bridge near the present Lake street bridge. The state is at present unable to participate in the construction of such a viaduct for reasons that have been explained and the commission is, therefore, unable to make a finding of necessity, which finding would obligate the state. It appears that the legislature did not contemplate projects of such magnitude when it enacted the section of the statutes under which the petition was made, and provided for appropriations for construction under its provisions. Until the time when adequate appropriations for construction under its provisions. Until the time when adequate appropriations shall be authorized, situation such as the one under consideration cannot be given relief through the operation of Section 1321a."

"The petition of the City of Appleton must, therefore, be denied. It was moved that the petition of the City of Appleton, filed under Section 1351a of the Statutes, be denied."

The congress may designate. The grant of authority to proceed would, necessarily, bring the tariff commission into new and enlarged activities, because no executive could discharge such a duty except upon the information acquired and recommendations made by this commission. But the plan is feasible and the proper functioning of the board would give us a better administration of a defined policy than ever can be made possible by tariff duties prescribed without flexibility."

By the phrase "administration of a defined policy" the president means in his own case a protectionist policy. The evils of tariff law are not usually one of principal, but the application of principal. It is more often a question of whether the protection is for the manufacturer or the consumer and whether the protection is for the manufacturer, is sufficient to keep out foreign competition without raising the price too high for the American consumer. As costs of production and labor conditions fluctuate, the statistics on which congress levies its duties also change. Mr. Harding wants the protectionist policy applied honestly. He believes a tariff commission could constantly furnish the data and the chief executive could thus change the duties from time to time to conform to the fluctuation in economic conditions throughout the country."
